To Meet Confucius

IN CHINA a labor party is trying to seize Canton. Martial law is declared and more of China's 400,000,000 will join Confucius, and perhaps hear what he thinks of fighting China.

When Bertrand Russell visited and wrote about the Chinese, he concluded that their salvation would be to wait, endure, let the whites kill themselves off. Then the yellows would rule.

China is not taking that advice. Yellows are as foolish as whites about killing.

Students at Chicago's Northwestern University vote Lindbergh and Henry Ford "the biggest men of the year." Queen Marie leads the women.

President Coolidge, Mussolini, the Prince of Wales, Mayor Thompson, Edison, Tunney, Al Smith, Babe Ruth get votes.

Ruth Elder, charming young lady, attracted attention and newspapers gave her at least $100,000,000 worth of free advertising. Now the intelligent Loew Company gives her $1,000 a day for 100 days to tell about it in vaudeville.

For $100,000 intelligent Mr. Nicholas M. Schenck gets the benefit of $100,000,000 worth of publicity.

Madame Curie could not get $100,000 for telling about radium. The people want action.

General Motors announces the establishment of a new plant in Atlanta, Ga. This is a tribute to the automobile buying power of the South, the outstanding position of Atlanta as a distributing centre and the common sense of Mr. Sloan and others that run General Motors.

Atlanta's Chevrolet plant will give work at good wages to many. Mr. Knudson, head of the Chevrolet Company, says: "A plant in Atlanta became not only a possibility, but a necessity."

Germany signs the League of Nations agreement "affording protection to women workers before and after childbirth." A woman would be allowed to quit work six weeks before the birth of a child and remain away six weeks afterward, with pay and free medical attention.

That sounds almost like civilization—governments compelling employers to do for women what intelligent horse owners did for mares a thousand years ago.

A tax assessor at Washington, D. C., values White House building and grounds at $22,000,000; the Capitol, $53,000,000; State, War and Navy buildings, $13,500,000; Treasury building, $23,500,000.

Uncle Sam should get some flying machines to protect all that property. A dozen bombing enemy fliers could soon knock those buildings around the ears of men that live or work in them.

SHIP CAPTAIN JAILED WHEN HE REFUSED TO RUN BLOCKADE IN GULF

By JOHN PAGE

Washington, Nov. 18.—The brief glimpses the American people have had behind the scenes in Mexico and Nicaragua have given but the vaguest idea of the steps taken by President Calles to install a puppet Liberal anti-American Government in Nicaragua last year, or of what happened to those who crossed him in his desires.

The Hearst papers today expose the strong-arm methods resorted to by President Calles, the Mexican Executive, in getting rifles and cartridges into the hands of his Liberal allies, using a ship in the service of the Mexican Government in which to transport them, and summarily removing the captain of that ship for refusing to accept the mission, partly because he was afraid of American warships and partly because of bad treatment at the hands of Nicaraguan Liberals on a previous gun-running expedition. This ship's captain subsequently was arrested and disappeared.

The amazing scope of the Mexican President's activities in putting a Liberal army in the field in Nicaragua to overthrow its pro-American government and thus prevent construction of the proposed transcontinental canal by the United States; his efforts to convert his people and Central Americans to Communism, and

Caldwell Here as Coach

Yale's mighty football squad hopped off its three-car special train at the Back Bay Station early this afternoon and was rushed out to the Stadium, where, on the morrow, it will face Harvard before 55,000 fans.

The Blue warriors went through a light practice session of an hour's duration and from there to the Hotel Lenox, headquarters of the team, until after the game.

Head Coach Tad Jones was reticent about his team's chances. All he would say was that the odds of 2 to 1 on his charges were absurd.

"No football team in the country should be a 2 to 1 choice over any opponent," said the Yale mentor, who is alleged to be serving in that capacity for the last year at New Haven.

Other than to remark that the odds were silly, none of the other Bulldog coaches would talk about the team, either.

NEW VERMONT FLOOD WASHES OUT BRIDGES AND B. & M. ROADBED

Bridges swept away, railroad tracks washed out, and streets and highways inundated, as rivers swollen by heavy rains lapped sullenly at their banks, today marked the recurrence of the flood menace in Vermont, western Massachusetts and eastern New York State.

The temporary bridge over Little River, on the outskirts of Waterbury, Vt., where the flood two weeks ago left hundreds homeless, was lifted from its foundations and carried away, forcing a detour of Red Cross supplies through the mountain roads of Smugglers' Notch.

Two miles of newly-repaired Boston & Maine double track went out at Westminster, Vt., south of Bellows Falls, necessitating a detour by way of East Northfield and Keene, N. H.

7 ARRESTED IN $50,000 WAREHOUSE ROBBERIES

Seven men were taken into custody today in Chelsea and others are being shadowed by police and detectives in an effort to break up one of the boldest bands of warehouse thieves in recent local crime annals.

Harry Snow, proprietor of a store on Everett avenue, and Philip Grobman of Congress avenue, both of Chelsea, were taken in a noon raid on their stores. More than $400 worth of goods were taken by the raiding police.

In earlier arrests the police uncovered the machinery with which groceries valued at $50,000 or more had been stolen from the Standard Grocery Company, at No. 395 Commercial street, and other Battery Wharf wholesalers, during the past six months.

HOOVER TELLS FLOOD PLAN TO N. E. COUNCIL

Springfield, Nov. 18.—Secretary Herbert Hoover of the U. S. Department of Commerce today focused the attention of 1,000 and more delegates to the third annual conference of the New England Council on the flood-wrecked State of Vermont.

Prior to his appearance in the municipal auditorium these industrial leaders of New England heard experts of the U. S. Army, American Red Cross and the industries of Vermont, together with official representatives of the government of the Green Mountain State, state the needs of the stricken territory.

Following a forenoon session divided into three divisions—agriculture, recreational resources and industry—the delegates devoted the entire afternoon to consideration of flood relief and rehabilitation.

REPAIRED R. R. AND BRIDGE WASHED OUT BY NEW VERMONT FLOOD

RED-CROSS SUPPLIES HELD UP

The highway bridge over the Pike river between Phillipsburg, Vt., and Pike River, Que., was swept away, blocking automobile traffic into Montreal over the main road.

MANY PHONES OUT.

A temporary highway bridge across the Lamoille river at Cambridge, Vt., was afloat, highway officials said, but was held to the banks by heavy chains.

More than fifty telephone lines were put out of commission at Keene, N. H., and many cellars in the city were flooded.

Employes of the Turners Falls Power and Electric Company at Turners Falls removed flashboards from the company's Connecticut river dam and opened 44 feet of flood gates.

In Springfield, the Connecticut River was up 18 inches in 24 hours, and the Agawam, one of its tributaries, was seeping into West Springfield.

The rain ceased falling at noon in Vermont, and a northwest wind sent the temperature dropping from 10 to 15 degrees. White River Junction was the end of motor traffic to the north.

13 DEATHS REPORTED.

All the rivers were up at least two feet, the White River being the worst, although other than the bridge swept away at Westminster no serious damage was reported along its course. The death toll from the storm which lashed a course from Washington to Canada had reached 13 today.

Bridges between Springfield and Albany on the lines of the Boston & Albany were reported weakened, with patrols out and engineers warned to proceed slowly.

From New York State came the news that three bridges on the State highway system between Malone and Ogdensburg had been carried away and that others were under water.

HOOSAC OVERFLOWS.

The Hoosac river was over its banks at North Adams, with a foot of water on River street in that city.

In West Springfield the Connecticut was slowly rising and fears were felt for the temporary dike erected after the ravages of the last flood.

Punch Brook overflowed in the thickly settled part of Fitchburg, and temporary bridges were constructed to enable school children to cross Elm street.

Rain began falling in Northern Vermont early yesterday forenoon, and with nightfall the flood spectre lifted its gaunt head once more. Although the rainfall was not as heavy as that which precipitated the recent floods with their staggering loss of life and property, the absorption power of the soil was less and the reservoirs were practically full.

Warning of a storm of 24 hours' duration was received from the weather bureau at Washington by Red Cross workers in Burlington, who flashed out warnings throughout the threatened sections.

To the hundreds of homeless and the thousands whose houses are still uninhabitable, the word of new floods looming came as a cruel blow. As the rain-fed torrents surged higher the residents of the threatened district watched apathetically, refusing to flee to high land.

Reports from St. Albans, Vt., stated that water several inches deep covers a great portion of the Montreal-Green Mountain highway between the border and St. John's, Que.

Rutland reported that streams were full and still rising, and that newly-made, temporary roads were already rendered impassable in places.

BAROMETER RISING.

The gloom spread over the ill-fated Winooski Valley was lightened to some extent when the weather bureau at Burlington reported that the barometer was rising with the prospect that the rain would cease falling shortly.

Even with the cessation of rain, Red Cross workers declared that relief work would be considerably impaired, as the country roads in many instances are morasses over which traffic is practically impossible.

The Winooski river was four feet above last night's level, and at noon was still rising, with the prospect that the pontoon bridge connecting Burlington and Winooski might go out.

Commissioner Charles T. Pierce, in charge of motor operation on Vermont roads, since the flood, issued an order that no vehicle of more than eight tons gross weight shall be operated on any highway. The road through Middlesex Notch was closed to traffic today it was so badly cut up.

Although no washouts were reported on that particular line, trains for St. Albans were routed by Rouses Point as a safety measure. One train reached St. Armand, Que., 14 miles nort hof St. Albans last night, but was turned back because of high water.

At Montpelier the water was up five feet and a foot bridge installed where a highway bridge went out two weeks ago, was carried away. The debris lodged in the North Branch in the center of the city caused the water to back up and flood cellars in one block.

In Northern New York rivers were reported rising at the rate of an inch an hour, and one village, Philadelphia, was said to be half under water. Twenty five families were reported taken to safety in row boats during the night.

CALLES SHIPS ARMS TO SACASA REBELS

to reward American radical writers financially for propaganda in favor of his own government have been revealed in previous articles. But while as busy as could be in his various pro-Bolshevist propaganda measures, he remembered that his friends in Nicaragua must have rifles enough to go around and plenty of cartridges, if they were to overthrow the pro-American Conservative government, which had been holding its own pretty well in the field.

Several small shipments of arms and munitions had been landed in Nicaragua during the months of August, September and October of 1926, principally by the Mexican ships Superior and Tropical, and the Nicaraguan Foam. These shipments were sufficient to get the revolutionary campaign underway smartly, but insufficient to give the rebel forces under Dr. Juan Bautista Sacasa that superiority in rifles, machine guns and field artillery necessary to insure triumph over the inadequately equipped government troops.

President Calles, responding to the repeated pleas of his Nicaraguan allies for more arms, caused a great store of war material to be collected at the Mexican Gulf port of Vera Cruz, ready for shipment at the end of November.

ORDERS SHIPMENT

On December 1 he directed that three thousand boxes of this material be shipped from Vera Cruz on the Mexican Steamship Superior, formerly the Tamaulipas. The name had been changed in an effort to disguise her identity as a ship belonging to a steamship line controlled by the Mexican Government. General Jose Alvarez, the Mexican Executive's Chief of Staff, sent a telegram to General Arnulfo R. Gomez, Chief of Military Operations in the State of Vera Cruz, ordering the sailing of the Superior. The English text follows:

Arnulfo R. Gomez, Chief of Military Operations in
Vera Cruz.

By order of the Citizen President of the Republic you will direct Naval Captain Francisco Villanueva, commanding the National Steamship Superior, to receive aboard under the immediate custody of Francisco Troncoso, three thousand boxes with war material, which will be transported according to orders to be given him by the said Troncoso, to a Central American port. Due precautions should be taken in the transportation of this material to avoid any encounter with the patrol-ships of the United States Navy.

You will order that Captain Villanueva shall make a careful selection of his ship's crew, in order to avoid desertions or the giving out of information concerning the contents of the cargo under his custody. The said captain will be held responsible for any mishap in the performance of this mission, confided to him by the Presidency.

Please acknowledge receipt of this Order and advise of the departure from Vera Cruz of the ship referred to in this message.

The Chief of the President's
Staff
General J. Alvarez.
Dec. 1, 1926.

CAPTAIN REFUSED

General Gomez replied the same day, saying that Captain Villanueva had refused to obey his sailing instructions, owing partly to fear of an encounter with American warships and partly to bad treatment at the hands of Nicaraguan rebels on a previous arms-bearing voyage. He added that Captain Villanueva had been arrested for insubordination and the command of the Superior offered to another ship's captain, Hiran Toledo, subject to the approval of Calles. Toledo, he asserted, was a captain who had lost his commission for some unstated cause, and asked only that it be restored to him in the event of his success in landing the arms shipment.

The English text follows:

Citizen President of the Republic.
The National Palace, Mexico,
D. F.

I have the honor to inform you that Captain Francisco Villanueva, commanding the National Steamship Superior, refuses to sail with cargo to Nicaragua under the conditions which you directed me to demand from him. In view his negative I have ordered his detention for lack of discipline and arranged that Captain Hiran Toledo, now here with commission cancelled, shall accept the mission under conditions you outlined. He requires only that his old grade in the National Navy be recognized if he carries out mission successfully. I have promised Toledo recognition his old standing provided superior officials consent to confer him mission. Cargo and crew aboard ship everything ready sail at first order.

Respectfully, General of Division and Chief of Military Operations.
A. R. Gomez.

Left to right, Alfred Byron, Canadian soldier of fortune; Juan Lopez, Mexican army officer; Porfirio Gomez, brother of General Arnulfo Gomez, recently executed by President Calles' troops in Serrano uprising in Mexico. It was General Gomez who was prominently identified with the smuggling of arms into Nicaragua for the Sacasa revolutionists.

General Alvarez' replied the following day (Dec. 2) in the name of the President, approving the arrest of Villanueva and giving the command of the Superior to Captain Toledo. The English text follows:

Arnulfo R. Gomez, Chief of Military Operations in
Vera Cruz.

Your telegram No. 285 to the Citizen President of the Republic, dated yesterday.

By order of the President you will please inform Captain Hiran Toledo that in accord with his agreement with you, the Citizen President of the Republic recognizes his old standing in the National Navy, always provided he carries out without any mishap the mission confided to him.

He will leave to your judgment the selection of the ship's crew, in order that the influence of Villanueva on the personnel shall not result in mutinies which would be disastrous for the success of the expedition.

You will order that Captain Villanueva be sent to Mexico City to be imprisoned in Santiago (Santiago Tlaltelolco, the military prison, where death sentences are carried out secretly) and subjected to the process he merits.

The Chief of the President's
Staff
General J. Alvarez.
Dec. 2, 1926.

GIVES SAILING DATE

General Gomez replied the same day that everything had been arranged as the President desired, and that the Superior would sail early on the morning of December 3, escorted by the Mexican Gunboat Agua Prieta, as far as the coast of Yucatan. The text follows:

To the Citizen President of the Republic.
The National Palace, Mexico,
D. F.

Your code telegram No. 7319. I have already ordered delivery of Villanueva to Mexico City. Troncoso has duly received materials, everything in readiness to sail early hour tomorrow with selected crew. The Agua Prieta will escort ship (Superior) to Puerto Morelos on the coast of Yucatan and return. I await your orders regarding war material remaining in this port.

Respectfully, General of Division and Chief of Military Operations
Dec. 2, 1926. A. R. Gomez.

The Superior's huge cargo of war materials was landed in the vicinity of Pearl Lagoon, on the Nicaraguan Atlantic Coast, almost under the very guns of the American warships patroling the shore in the hope of scaring her off by their mere presence. Captain Toledo refused to be bluffed, however, and landed his cargo. He was resolved that nothing less than physical force should stop him, and Admiral Latimer's instructions from Washington at that time were not broad enough to permit the use of force.

LATIMER ACTS

A fortnight later, under more comprehensive instructions from Washington, Latimer sunk a great part of the shipment, including two million rifle cartridges, but not before the Liberal forces under Dr. Sacasa had won a battle giving him control of the Atlantic Coast. His army was equipped largely with Mexican arms and munitions landed by the Superior, which gave them a great advantage over the poorly armed government troops.

Captain Toledo returned to Mexico in triumph, reporting personally to President Calles on December 30. Toledo delivered to Calles a letter from Sacasa, who by then had established his "government" at Puerto Cabezas, on the Nicaraguan Atlantic Coast. Dr. Sacasa wanted to know whether the Mexican Government would continue supporting him in the face of the State Department's constantly stiffening attitude, and requested additional funds for necessary expenses.

Calles replied, substantially as follows: That Dr. Sacasa had done well thus far and the Mexican Government was disposed to support him in all respects, counting on friends of Mexico in the United States to bring sufficient pressure to bear on the State Department and certain Senators to keep the American Government from intervening militarily, and that in his opinion anything short of military intervention must fail of success in sustaining the Diaz Government in Nicaragua, because by then the Sacasa forces must be far better equipped for war than the troops at the disposal of Diaz.

URGES NO DISMAY

Calles urged Sacasa not to be dismayed at the attitude assumed by Admiral Latimer, but, if necessary, to re-establish his capital at some point in the interior. He then supplied Captain Toledo with $50,000 in American bills and instructed him to deliver both money and letter to Sacasa.

Journalistic ethics cause the Hearst newspapers at this point to state that they have not the text of the Calles letter just cited, or of the Sacasa letter to which it replies. We have obtained a verbal summary of their contents from a Mexican official in constant contact with President Calles, but cannot reveal his name because of his present high position. The high source from which we received these summaries and the circumstances that they dovetail so perfectly with established and related facts, we believe, justifies their publication.

These revelations will be continued in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

52 KILLED ON A MEXICAN TRAIN

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 18 (I.N.S.).—Five hundred Mexican rebels attacked a southbound Mexican railways passenger train 20 miles south of Zacatecas, Mexico, killing 32 soldiers and 18 passengers, including eight women and four children, said a dispatch to a local Mexican newspaper today.

The engineer and firemen were dragged from the locomotive cab and shot to death.

A number of passengers, soldiers and trainmen were wounded. They were taken to the hospital in Aguascalientes. Federal cavalry is pursuing the rebels.

A train guard of 24 Federal soldiers replied to the fire of the rebels, but were overcome by superior numbers.

A rebel band attacked Jalpa, Zacatecas, but was repulsed. Colonel Francisco Mejia, the Federal commander, was wounded.

5 ARRESTED IN MUNITION PLOT

New Orleans, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Five men were arrested and 7,500 rounds of ammunition were seized on two ships, one due to sail to Mexico, and the other to Honduras, by customs officials here today.

The largest seizure was on the Honduran steamer Bholuteca, where 4,500 rounds of ammunition were found. Of this amount 1,500 rounds were said to have been in the possession of Franklin Woods and the other 3,000 rounds were reported to be held by Joe Martinez, Carlos Garcia, Juan Portilla and Juan Lopez.

The men were turned over to Department of Justice agents.

After the seizure the agents went aboard the steamer Winico, where they said they found 3,000 rounds. It could not be learned to whom the ammunition belonged and ship officers denied knowledge of its being on the boat.

were painted by Col. William A. Barden, United States Army engineer; James L. Feiser, vice-chairman of the American Red Cross; H. I. Harriman, president of the New England Power Company of Vermont; H. C. Comings, chairman of the Vermont section of the New England Council, and E. L. [illegible], manager of the Associated Industries of Vermont.

A story of the amazing development of the medicine business by the United Drug Company of Boston was told at the morning session of the industry group by George C. Frolich, manager of the medicines department of that company.

Efforts to reconcile the interests of farmers, chain stores and delivery dealers in the milk business in Massachusetts were described by Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, Bay State Commissioner of Agriculture, at the meeting of the agricultural group.

BUILDS UP $8,000,000 BUSINESS.

Frolich, who spoke at a meeting presided over by the industrial group chairman, Louis K. Liggett, founder of the United Drug Company, declared that an $8,000,000 business was developed in his department of the company in six years.

"Of prime importance in this development was the placing of standard medicines in attractive packages, and also of great importance was the creation of a standard of quality with which the public soon became familiar," he said.

"Take boric acid, for example. A few years ago there was one factory in the United States producing this household product and its capacity was 4,000 pounds a month. When we placed an order for 25,000 pounds a month, they considered us crazy.

"But the United Drug Company is now putting on the market 42,000 pounds every month, more than ten times the amount that was formerly the entire output of the country in this product."

USING WASTE PRODUCTS.

The creation of a tremendous business in what were formerly the waste products of the baking powder plants was described by William Sweet, president of the Rumford Chemical Works, Providence.

From these waste products, synthetic gypsum for insulation is now produced, he explained, and 6,000,000 tons are sold annually, it having been found to be the cheapest non-combustible insulating material made. Formerly, he said, it was dumped in the sewers.

"We are endeavoring to reconcile the differences of the creameries, chain stores and deliverymen handling milk and have reached a point where they have agreed to file gates with the Department of Agriculture at the State House," said Commissioner Gilbert, speaking on the milk situation.

KINKS IN MILK BUSINESS.

"Our investigation disclosed that janitors of apartment houses in some cases were being given rebates for boosting certain brands of milk.

"We are trying to bring about a differential of two and a half cents a quart between the chain store price and the delivery price. This difference is now three cents or more. Farmers are complaining and delivery dealers are shouting that milk is being sold below cost.

"The flood did not cause a great shortage in milk, but it put dealers to tremendous expense to get their supplies for distribution to stores and homes. We have had to import milk from Iowa and we were surprised at the remarkably high quality of this Iowa milk. New England farmers should take notice. Of course, the cost of shipping is too high to bring Iowa milk here steadily, but its quality is something to be noted."

VERMONT RESOLUTION.

The Vermont delegation prepared a resolution for presentation to Secretary Hoover, embodying recommendations made by him at Montpelier, Vt., following his review of the flood situation. That resolution urged that the Red Cross undertake full responsibility to furnish new home construction, cattle, horses, livestock, farm implements, tools, food and clothing for the Winter for those who cannot otherwise provide for themselves.

The resolution also asked that the New England Bankers' Association or the New England Council assure credits to worthy industrial and commercial establishments embarrassed by the flood and that the Federal Highway Bureau make an estimate of reconstruction costs and arrange with Vermont highway officials for sharing these costs.

The accelerated tempo of modern life, with its irresistible sweep of public demand for quality, style, color and variety in every conceivable type of manufactured product, was indicated as one of the great aspects of consumer psychology that faces the New England manufacturer by Ernest Elmo Calkins of New York.

"The fundamental purpose of the New England Council is to be stimulating and inspirational," said Colonel Frank C. Knox, addressing the general assembly from the stage of the auditorium. "One of its major ideas is to foster the idea of community industry—the application to the community of the same principles that apply to business. Community surveys are the starting point from which community progress is to proceed."

3 FUR ROBBERS ESCAPE SHOTS

Three "paving brick" robbers, blamed for numerous fur store robberies, surprised as they were attempting to rob the Starr Woman's Apparel Shop at No. 2288 Washington street early today, escaped in a hail of bullets sent after them by Patrolman Gregory Torres of the Dudley street station.

Torres, on his beat, heard the crash of glass at the Starr shop, near the Dudley terminal, and went there on the run. As he approached he saw two men standing in the doorway. In front was a large gray sedan, its motor running, and a third man at the wheel.

The robbers saw Torres approaching and ran for the sedan, already on the move. They disregarded his order to halt and drove rapidly north on Washington street in the direction of the centre of the city.

Torres emptied his pistol, sending six shots after them. Then he ran to his box and notified the Dudley street station which in turn notified Captain Livingston's flying squadron. A police machine was quickley on the scene and on the trail of the robbers.

The fleeing sedan was trailed to the vicinity of the South Station and there the trail was lost.

GIRL NOT 'IMMORAL' DESPITE ONE LAPSE

New York, Nov. 18.—The fact that several years ago a young woman was admittedly indiscreet in her relations with a young man does not make her immoral now.

So ruled Federal Judge Inch of Brooklyn in admitting to citizenship an applicant whom the naturalization officials sought to bar on the ground of her admitted indiscretion.

The young woman in whose case the court found that "indiscreet" and "immoral" were not synonymous terms was Mrs. Maria Draginsky, 24, of No. 2816 Beverly road, Brooklyn.

Representatives of the naturalization bureau opposed her application. Several years ago, in Russia, it developed, she fell in love with a young man. They became intimate, but for some reason did not marry.

Later she married another man, Dmitri Draginsky, and they had a son, George, now eight. She came to this country in August, 1921. She and her husband had separated. He is living now at No. 550 West One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street, and she and her son live with her father.

The father hotly defended his daughter against the charge of the naturalization officials that she was an immoral woman in the eyes of the law.

"My daughter may have been foolish," he exclaimed, "but no bureau or court can make her out as immoral because of an indiscreet surrender."

"I agree with your father that you were indiscreet," said Judge Inch in a kindly tone, "and I agree with him that you have not been made into an immoral character by that indiscretion. Sep up and take the oath of citizenship."

Mrs. Draginsky's father and her brother-in-law, Raymond H. Papernow, No. 1980 Harrison avenue, the Bronx, both testified she was living a moral life and the indiscretion in Russia was merely "a girlish slip."

Mrs. Draginsky is connected with the moving picture industry, it was said. Judge Inch gave her permission to take the name of Maria George, which she uses in the movies.

SAY 'DOCTOR' LEFT BAD CHECKS, SAD GIRLS

The broad and far-flung practice of "Dr. Matthew M. Spiero" is ended, at least temporarily.

After a hunt for nearly a month that took detectives through society's haunts in Newport, R. I., into smart Boston hotels, through the flood areas of New Hampshire and Vermont and up along the rim of New York State into Canada—the "doctor" finally was arrested in Montreal.

The chase and arrest were in the matter of alleged worthless checks, but the self-declared physician and specialist in water-carried diseases is declared to have left at least two broken hearts (feminine) behind him.

These were broken in Boston when Miss Clarice Ryan, New York nurse but a native of Haverhill, and Miss Ida Vandenburgh, another New York nurse, learned that "Dr. Spiero's" story of affluence and large practice was somewhat wet and that his promise to marry her was not so good either.

The affable 200-pound six-foot "doctor" had shrugged into his big fur coat several days before the girls' enlightening by Boston police inspectors, and even then was being hunted in the flood area, while Clarice mourned her lost bridals and Ida was heartbroken for her friend's disillusionment.

In New Hampshire and Vermont the "doctor" is alleged to have passed many bad checks while posing as an expert on water diseases in the employ of the Rockefeller Foundation.

It is believed that detectives who finally arrested Spiero in Montreal returned him to this side of the line and got him safely into New York before preferring formal charges against him.

After being arraigned in New York on complaint of the Nassau Bank of Brooklyn, Spiero told his captors that he had cashed worthless checks in the flood areas in order to relieve hungry and homeless refugees. With the money, he said, he bought food which he distributed to the homeless.

COLD WEATHER IS PREDICTED

A sharp slump in temperatures and real cold weather continuing at least over the weekend was predicted by the weather man today.

The mercury has fallen near the freezing mark in New York, Pennsylvania and northern New England, shrunk by the icy breath of the wave sweeping this way from Minnesota.

With the advent of the chill air, fair weather will prevail, he said, an item of assurance for persons in the flood stricken areas.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight and Saturday, much colder tonight; colder Saturday; diminishing northwest winds.

MME. LUPESCU TAKES RAP AT PREMIER BRATIANU

(Copyright, 1927, by International News Service)

Paris, Nov. 18.—Complete agreement with Prince Carol's views of Premier Bratianu of Rumania, and a few caustic remarks of her own concerning Rumania's "iron man" were expressed today by Madame Helene Lupescu, titian-haired beauty for whose love Carol renounced his succession to the throne.

"Bratianu is in his second childhood. He is 72 and his reason certainly must be failing fast."

These remarks about Premier Bratianu were made by Madame Lupescu when the International News Service asked her opinion of the publication of the "Black Book" by Bratianu. The volume purported to reveal many of Prince Carol's love letters.

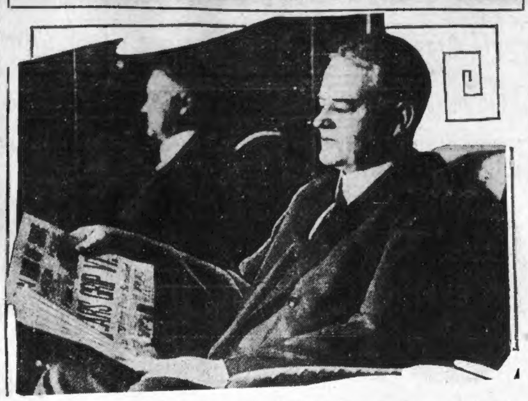
HOOVER READS FAVORITE PAPER



Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the administration's "handy man of all work," declared today in Boston upon his return from the Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts flood area, that high water relief work has washed politics wholly out of his mind. He will have no announcements to make pertaining to his prospective race for the Presidency until after his task is completed, he said. He was photographed reading the Boston Evening American. —Boston Evening American Staff Photo.

HOOVER LIKENS N. E. FLOOD TO MISSISSIPPI'S

The New England flood was more destructive than the Mississippi valley water rampage, taking into consideration the much smaller area affected in this section, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover declared today.

In Boston en route from the Vermont flood zone to Springfield, where he will speak to the New England Council, Secretary Hoover refused to talk politics.

Commenting on this, the assistant secretary of the Department of Commerce, John Akerson, who is traveling with Secretary Hoover, said:

"Mr. Hoover's invariable policy since undertaking flood relief work has been to refrain from mentioning politics, but he has said he will talk politics 'good and plenty' when the right time comes."

Assistant Secretary Akerson did not offer this explanation in his chief's presence, however, Mr. Hoover having steped from the breakfast room of the Copley-Plaza into the lobby, where he was recognized and given the attention generally accorded presidential timber these days.

"The New England flood affected an area of approximately 1,000 square miles and was relatively much more destructive than any such disaster in the United States during the past year, including the Mississippi flood," he said to his interviewer after waving politics aside.

1 DEAD, 5 HURT IN SHIP BLAST

Baltimore, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A terrific explosion tore the steamer Jacob Luckenback to pieces today, killing one man and injuring five others. One man is believed to have been blown overboard.

The explosion occurred on the first deck of the vessel, where workmen were said to have been engaged with an acetylene torch near a fuel tank.

The Luckenbach was an oil burning freighter, which went on the rocks near San Francisco some time ago and was towed here for scrapping.

From a hospital operating table, where he awaited treatment for his injuries, Raymond Carson said the blast shook the ship "like a terrier shakes a rat."

"From the way the boat rocked, I don't see how any of us got away," Carson added.

Convict in State Prison Sends $5 to Flood Fund

'BIG NAVY' MEN SEE COOLIDGE AS ALLY NOW

Washington, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—President Coolidge's pledge to a Philadelphia audience to support a policy of naval expansion virtually assures success of the fight for a big cruiser and submarine building program. "Big Navy" spokesmen in Congress declared today.

The President's advice was in direct contrast to his advice to Congress last year to "go slow" pending the holding of the Geneva Naval Arms Limitation Conference which failed.

"Big Navy" forces hailed with delight his statement that "we shall round out our navy with more submarines and more cruisers, and private ownership should provide it with an auxiliary merchant marine of fast cargo boats."

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A.P.)—A juror's fatal fall from a fifty story window halted the trial of Rolland Gaskell, former county police sergeant, charged with Louise Smith, nineteen, of Cambridge, Mass.

Santa Gets New Things for Boys and Girls

By FRANCES L BAIRD

Who buys the most expensive Christmas toys?

"Why, the average working people, of course," replies Santa Claus.

"Last year a laborer bought my very best doll house and paid $136 for it as casually as he would buy new overalls. He also bought $75 worth of other toys for his four-year-old daughter before leaving the store. American children have the most expensive toys in the world, and they are nearly all bought by working people."

When asked what is new in toys this year Santa said he had racked his brains to design new things to make the boys happy and went on to list many new delightful things, each of which is right up to the minute so as to appeal to the same psychology that makes young America insatiable in his demand for something different.

ESPECIALLY FOR GIRLS.

"But the little girls perennially like the same things," Santa argued, "for them I must constantly improve my dolls for they want new things, but not necessarily different toys. Little girls insist on having little homes and doll families so I bring these up to date along with the newest adult ideas for home and family life."

"Dimples" and her companion dolls, "Bubbles" and "Chuckles" will delight many little mother hearts for they are very realistic babies. For screen fans there is "Snookums" and for the older girls some marvellous felt dolls from Italy—boudoir sirens.

But boys—well the only way to keep them happy is to supply something like the new steam engine which can be operated by electricity from the light socket and create the power that moves various toys. In this tiny steam engine there is a coil which boils the water to form the steam.

NEW GEAR SHIFT MODEL.

Not to be outdone by Henry Ford with his new gear shift car the automobile toy designer has brought out a model with two speed gears in a foot propelled vehicle. In going uphill this is a great advantage making possible to peda' more easily on low gear because the feet go fast while the car goes slow.

The Pullman Car Company and the New York Central Railroad furnished drawings from which the newest electric train, "The President's Special" was modeled after the famous 20th Century Limited. It is built on a scale of one quarter inch to the foot exactly like the crack flyer. A new feature in all electric trains this year is the track control whereby Johnny can stop his train without touching it merely by short circuiting the track.

NEW BUILDING LUMBER.

Even building lumber is different this year for boys don't care so much for flat faced houses as they once did. Today the lumber comes ready cut for construction of the entire building, making possible the building of a complete set of rail road yards or a mansion, church or bridge according to the boy's fancy.

One of the most thrilling of new toys is the hydraulic aerial tower on fire apparatus, equipped with a compression pump that throws a stream 25 or more feet, exactly like that used in the city fire department.

BRAND NEW DUMP TRUCK.

A dump truck, large enough for a boy to sit in can be unloaded by pressing a pedal without moving from the seat, and another has hydraulic raising of the truck body to accomplish the same purpose.

In wheel goods the sidewalk cycle this year has added a side car for baby brother and the foot propelled aeroplane has a revolving propeller in front. For little folks there's the "Trotaway."

Instruction toys remain about the same but a feature is the reduced price of many of these this season. Some for instance have dropped fifty per cent. New ways to play the same games have added a charm, but few new designs appear in these.

It is noticeable all through the mechanical toys that they are of larger, showier type this year for less money than ever before.

Now Would These Gentlemen Be "Pros"?

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—An annual battle of culture, to supplement the historic athletic contests between Harvard and Yale, was suggested to the Harvard student council a week ago by Dean Alfred C. Hanford of Harvard College, the New Haven Register says today. The plan is for a series of competitive examinations between representatives of the two universities, to be given in each department of study.

Ten men representing each institution would take identical examinations, similar to the Harvard "divisional" tests. The winning team would receive gold medals and a sum of MONEY with which to purchase books for its university library.

HOLD FASHION SHOW ON MOTHERS' GUEST NIGHT

Last night was Mothers' Guest Night at the meeting of the Young Woman's Club of Winthrop, which was held at 8 o'clock in the Social Hall of the Gilchrist Co.

As the feature of the evening, the young women entertained their mothers with a "Round The Clock" Fashion Show, conducted by Mrs. Beatrice Macomber, fashion advisor at Gilchrist's, assisted by Mrs. Edna England and Miss Beatrice Perry, also of Gilchrist's.

In a talk, Mrs. Macomber stressed the fact that good taste is a matter of knowledge and with wise selection it need not be expensive to dress correctly. To illustrate, she showed gowns for all occasions from morning costumes to evening frocks, as well as the correct accessories for these costumes. She talked also on color in fashion and how it should be worn. After the Fashion Show the evening was given over to discussion and Mrs. Macomber answered questions which were brought up.

Miss Elizabeth S. Downes is president of the club, and Miss M. Dorothy Gibby was chairman of the evening.

CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN IN THIS COLLEGE "FRAT"

Athens, Ga., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A new "college fraternity" has sprung into full flower at the University of Georgia and its requirements for membership bid fair to make it one of the nation's most exclusive. To qualify among the brethren of Sigma King, as the order is entitled, one must be an Ethiopian of prominent family connections, must be a butler at a recognized Greek letter fraternity house, must never have missed a football game in Athens since becoming a fraternity butler, and must wear only college clothes acquired from college men.

SILOAM SHRINE TO HAVE DINNER MONDAY

Plans are nearing completion for the dinner, in connection with the regular meeting of Siloam Shrine, No. 3, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, in Masonic Hall, No. 171 Warren street, Roxbury, next Monday night.

LAWYER WEEKS QUITS DEFENSE OF GEDZIUM

Attorney William E. Weeks, counsel for Jeremiah Gedzium, alias "Jerry the Pole," convicted slayer, in Middlesex court today notified the court of his withdrawal from the case.

Weeks appeared when hearing began in contempt proceedings against Ormsby L. Court, arrested yesterday in connection with the Gedzium case.

"A year ago," Weeks said, in explaining his withdrawal, "I was appointed by the court to defend Jerry Gedzium, and for a year I gave the best services I was capable of giving.

"I proceeded on the theory that no man was guilty until proved guilty.

"My duty to my client included the filing of various motions and appeals on exceptions.

"The information contained in the affidavit presented yesterday was brought voluntarily to my office and it is not my duty to judge the truth or falsity of it, but to ascertain the facts and present them to the court which I did.

"I have no desire to imitate the proceedings of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. I feel if I stayed in the case any longer what future steps I would take might be termed efforts to obstruct justice."

Weeks also withdrew as counsel for Court, accused of contempt in connection with an affidavit presented on behalf of Gedzium, after Judge David F. Dillon granted a continuance of the Court case until next Monday.

Weeks said he wished to appear as a witness for Court and wanted to give a new attorney time enough to prepare a defense.

DODGE TELLS OF MEETINGS WITH MRS. REMUS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Correspondent.

(Copyright, 1927, by International News Service.)

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 18.—This is Franklin Dodge, Jr.'s, own story, revealed exclusively today for the first time, of his relations with Mrs. Imogene Remus, who was shot and killed by her husband, George Remus, former "King of the Bootleggers," in Eden Park, Cincinnati, on the morning of October 6.

In it, Dodge, the "man in the case," makes these significant statements:

"I was never too friendly with Mrs. Remus.

"She never called me 'Dear,' nor used any such endearing terms, and I most certainly never called her 'Sugar.'

"I never conspired to keep Remus in prison, nor plotted with Mrs. Remus to keep possession of his property."

Dodge Star Witness

Dodge's story is of vital importance in the Remus murder trial now in progress here. Dodge is expected to be the State's star witness.

Dodge was the former "ace" of the Department of Justice dry enforcement army and his path many times crossed that of the spectacular Remus, guiding genius of a $100,000,000 liquor business.

"I have not been intimate with Mrs. Remus at any time or at any place," said Dodge.

"My relations with her have always been of the most proper character.

"I only met her in connection with government service while I was in the service of the government and upon leaving the government service I only met her for the purpose of discussing her private business affairs.

"She has never given me any money except what was necessary to pay expenses that were incurred by me while in her employment. At no time have I squandered or dissipated any of the funds or property of Mr. or Mrs. Remus. I have no interest whatever in the property of either of them.

Dined With Her

"I first met Mrs. Remus, in 1925, in the Clark County jail at Athens," said Dodge. "She was engaged in fixing up food delicacies for her husband, who was a prisoner in the jail. I saw her get down on her knees and scrub the floor of his cell."

Dodge denied that when Remus was in jail at Atlanta, and Dodge was in that city, he had ever visited Mrs. Remus in her apartment when she was alone. He did dine with her in the presence of her husband and others.

He admitted he met Mrs. Remus "on one occasion" in her magnificent dream palace in Cincinnati and on that occasion Miss Blanche Watson was present. He said he always addressed Mrs. Remus as Mrs. Remus," and she called him "Mr. Dodge." Always Mrs. Remus was "very ladylike."

Remus' Daughter Causes Stir in Courtroom

Cincinnati, Nov. 18.—A new touch was given the trial of George Remus when his daughter, Ramola, entered court today and sat beside him.

Remus patted her hand affectionately, smiled and assured her he was confident of winning his fight.

"Ramola and I have always loved each other," said Remus. "She is as good and pure as her mother." Remus is divorced from Ramola's mother. It was his second wife, Imogene, whom he shot and killed here October 6.

Miss Remus' unexpected appearance in court caused a buzz of conversation and the judge was forced to demand order.

"It's a plea for sympathy," commented Prosecutor Charles P. Taft, son of Chief Justice William Howard Taft.

THREE EXECUTIVES QUIT FORD IN FEW WEEKS

Detroit, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Earl P. Hobart, service manager of the Ford Motor Company since 1909, has resigned, it was learned today.

Hobart is the third Ford executive to resign within the last few weeks. William A. Ryan, general sales manager, resigned two weeks ago, his resignation being followed by that of Fred H. Diehl, purchasing agent.

He Has a Name

Milton, Pa., Nov. 18.—Miss Anthea Karvela is to have a man of letters for a husband. A license has been issued for her marriage in New York to Spiro K. Pappatriantafillopoulos.

Lesson No. 8

Question: Why is the emulsified form the more efficient way for me to realize the health-giving benefits of cod-liver oil?

Answer: Because when cod-liver oil is emulsified it is more perfectly absorbed, and does not disagree with digestion. Take

SCOTT'S EMULSION

TOTS FREED FOR $400,000 RANSOM CRY FOR PARENTS

Rabat, Morocco, Nov. 18 (I.N.S.).—"We want our mother," were the first words from two ragged, dirty little girls who were ransomed from Moroccan tribesmen and brought in to the French military lines. They did not know their mother and father had been murdered by Berber tribesmen as they themselves were kidnaped in October.

The little girls, whose name is Arnaud, were in a pitiful group of six prisoners released by the tribesmen upon payment of $400,000 in gold and various goods. The others were Yves Steeg, nephew of the French Governor-General, Jean Maillet; Baroness Steinhel and Mme. Prokoroff.

Colonial Dame Plunges 18 Stories to Death

Philadelphia, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Miss Maria J. Gilpin, 69, member of an old colonial family, fell to her death today from a vacant office on the eighteenth floor of the Mitten building. Her fall is believed to have been accidental, the theory of investigators being that she was suddenly attacked by vertigo, opened the window for air, stumbled against a radiator and pitched out head first.

Miss Gilpin, a member of the Colonial Dames of America, had gone to see her dentist.

Still grasping a black velvet handbag, Miss Gilpin was dead when policemen picked her up.

Dies on Street

Norman Ogden of No. 10 Catherine road, Watertown, a member of the orchestra at the Wilbur Theatre, dropped dead while en route to work.

SIR ESMONDE'S DAUGHTER WEDS U. S. NAVAL OFFICER

Dublin, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Patricia, daughter of Sir Thomas Grattan Esmonde, member of the Irish Senate, and Lieutenant John B. Jefferman of the United States Navy, were married at University Church here today.

Wainwright Abbott, secretary of the American legation in the Irish Free State, was best man. Those present included Mrs. Frederick A. Sterling, wife of the American minister; Governor-General Healy, foreign representatives and various Senators, deputies and army chiefs. The couple will leave for Washington tomorrow.

'G B. S.' Wants His Kissin' Long, Lots and Private

London, Nov. 18 (A.P.)—George Bernard Shaw does not care for kissing—as a spectator. The veteran dramatist told a group of motion picture exhibitors today he prefers to do the kissing himself.

He was discussing "sex appeal," declaring it is a delusion and a snare.

"The whole history of the cinema proves that sex appeal is one factor that can be omitted from the pictures."

"G. B. S." described himself as "what they call in America a movie fan."

"Who are the stars who have been most successful?" he asked and answering, said: "Charlie Chaplin and Miss Pickford chiefly and they have never used sex appeal.

"For my part I find it extremely tantalizing to see another gentleman kissing a beautiful lady. I would much prefer to do it myself—without a large crowd of onlookers.

"The exhibitors won't believe it but there are large crowds assembled because of their interest in politics, athletics and religion.

"Where is Dean Inge's sex appeal? Yet vast throngs attend his services in St. Paul's Cathedral."

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Mayflower Descendants to Hold Celebration in Ballroom of Hotel Somerset on Monday Night

LADY ISABELLA HOWARD
Wife of the British Ambassador will be guest at the Mayflower Descendants Celebration at the Hotel Somerset Monday evening.

LITTLE DID THOSE INTREPID souls, signing their Compact in the Mayflower's cabin, wot of the magnificence and circumstance to be done in their honor more than three centuries afterward. Their thanks were given for a safe ending to hazardous voyaging. Pomp and ceremony existed not. It remains for their descendants to stage a mighty occasion in commemoration of the signing, as they will do on Monday next when the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants celebrates fittingly and fulsomely the 307th anniversary, in the ballroom of the Hotel Somerset.

THE DESCENDANTS ARE DOING their commemorative affair very handsomely. The dinner guest list gleams and glitters with rank and importance. The Army, the Navy, the Judiciary, the Diplomats, Society, all are lustrously represented. Enthusiasm mounts with every passing moment. Indeed the managing committee, with Frederic A. Washburn, governor of the society, and Major Walter Merriam Pratt at its head, has been besieged for reservations.

BUT NO RESERVATIONS ARE to be had. Long, long ago, members for themselves and for their guests (these are the only eligibles) took up reservations, until the Somerset's Louis XIV. ballroom will be taxed to its capacity. Some interesting groups will gather at individual tables. The T. Morris Murray coterie, for example. The Murrays are bringing as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley Porter and Richard Drake. Mrs. Alden Thorndike is another member of the society entertaining.

SHE IS, BY WAY OF BEING AN ABSENTEE HOSTESS, HOWEVER. EVEN NOW SHE IS en route to California, and so has delegated for her table a most distinguished set. Mr. and Mrs. I. Tucker Burr are of it. And Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barron Watson. Also Mrs. Arthur W. Hartt and Mrs. Oliver Crocker Stevens. Mrs. Thorndike speeds Westward on a most engrossing errand, to welcome a new grandchild into the family circle. A little newcomer in the Donald McKay establishment has precedence for attention over even such an occasion as the Mayflower dinner.

COLONEL FREDERIC A. WASHBURN, AUGUST HEAD OF THE "DESCENDANTS," IS HOST TO important people. Mr. and Mrs. William Endicott, Dr. and Mrs. James H. Means, Tarrant P. King, Herbert N. Sears and Mrs. William P. Jackson will gather about the governor's table. Likewise most interesting and important is the guest list for the Walter Merriam Pratt table. It is a melange of rank and notables.

MRS. PRESTON BROWN, WIFE of Major-General Brown of the First Corps Area, is a guest of the Pratts. Also Mrs. Edward F. Gray, spouse of the British Consul General; Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. Malvern Hill Barnum, Professor Charles M. Spofford and Colonel Julian I. Chamberlain. Certainly there'll be some glitter about that particular board. The Chase and Wigglesworth families make up a group of "Descendants," both important and interesting.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE WIGGLESWORTH, Mr. and Mrs. Norton Wigglesworth, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Putnam Chase, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Thornton Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Train Whitney, Jr., make up the family circle. Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Burgess have with them Major and Mrs. Frank Sawtell, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hastings and Mr. and Mrs. George Brown. The Charles Francis Adamses will be at the dinner, also Mrs. Boylston Beal and Mrs. William L. McKee. Mrs. McKee comes up from her Summer place in Bristol especially for the momentous occasion.

AS TOASTMASTER THERE will be His Excellency, Alvan Tufts Fuller, whose reputation is abroad in the land for ready wit and repartee unending. As distinguished guests, seated at the high table in honorable place, will be, as per present plans, Mrs. Fuller, the Right Hon. Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador; Lady Isabella Howard, Sir Thomas Tait, K. B., representing our sister country to the North; the Honorable Frederick H. Gillett and Mrs. Gillett; Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, Rear Admiral Philip Andrews and Major-General Preston Brown.

POTENTATES WITHOUT count will be about the honor board—Mr. Gray, British Consul General; J. C. Joseph Flamand, Honorary Consul for France; Johannes Reurs, Consul for the Netherlands; the Marquis Agostino Ferrante, Italian Consul; and judges, generals, honorables and excellencies beyond telling. Altogether next Monday evening is the sort of occasion giving brilliant variety to the social program and delighting the social scribe whose pleasant duty it is to write about it.

FORDS ASSERT THEY MADE NO LINCOLN STOCK PLEDGE

Detroit, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Henry and Edsel Ford assumed no obligation to reimburse stockholders of the Lincoln Motor Company when they purchased the assets of that company at a receivership sale in 1922, according to a statement issued today by Edsel Ford. The statement was made in connection with the filing of a suit in chancery against the Fords by Henry M. and Wilfred C. Leland, former president an vice-president of the Lincoln company, on behalf of the former stockholders. The suit seeks approximately $6,000,000 on the ground that the Fords verbally agreed to make such reimbursement.

SAYS 300 SAW RUM BOAT AT SALISBURY

Salem, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Testimony to the effect that on one occasion about 300 spectators were gathered on the shore at Salisbury Beach watching the unloading of a boat load of liquor was given today by Anthony Caramango, Salisbury Beach garage man, government witness in the trial of 11 men charged with conspiracy to bribe former Selectmen Ruell S. Getchell and Everett R. George, and with conspiracy to violate the liquor laws.

Caramango, who had previously pleaded guilty to both indictments, resumed the stand at the opening of ocurt today. Much of his testimony had to do with the alleged passage of money between some of the defendants and former Chief of Police Harold Congden, also a defendant, in rum transactions.

On one occasion, the witness said, he saw the former police chief give money to Carl Voss, a defendant, and heard him say, "There is enough money to pay for 50 cases at $32 a case."

The witness further declared that Chief Congden told him there were 16 places at the beach paying him $50 a week for protection.

Waltham Boy Hurt

Roger Wheeler, aged 8 of Parmenter road, Waltham, is in a serious condition at the Waltham Hospital as the result of being run over by a truck, operated by Francis J. Sarnalarie. The lad was crossing the road when he was struck.

Mother!
Look at Child's Tongue if Sick, Cross, Feverish

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruity laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."

HARVARD-YALE HOSTS CROWD HUB HOTELS

The great influx — football-mad thousands—swarmed Boston's hostelries today as the main guard of Harvard and Yale fans descended on the city for tomorrow's football classic across the Charles.

Guests of last night, genially, of course, hurried their scheduled leavings today that the thrill-bent visitors might take up abode in their rooms and settle down to the fun-filled wait before the big game.

Others were forced to move to other rooms as reservation claimants poured into the lobbies. Some reservations were made months ago.

The "gentlemen of the alley" who lay the odds on all such contests and bear down rather hard (from past experience) when the Crimson meets the Blue, cast no dampening blanket over the ardent fans and the fact that Harvard will be on the short end of a 6-10 price when John, in his breeches, trots out on the grid matters not at all.

Thirty-six members of the uniformed branch of the State police were assigned to crowd activities today as well as duty at the game. The assignment continues to Monday morning.

In a warning to motorists football bent, Captain Charles T. Beaupre, head of the force, issued the ultimatum, "No burning up of the roads."

Where this crowd is going to sleep tonight is more or less of a problem. For some the matter of sleep on the night before has never been a subject of really serious consideration, but the vast majority seek their respective beds before the dawn.

HOTELS ARE FILED.

Today's earliest arrivals choked to capacity such hostelries as the Copley-Plaza, Ritz Carlton, Touraine, the Lenox and the Brunswick, the Statler and Westminster. Anybody who received a key to a room got it because of reservations made weeks ago. For the outsider who had forgotten or neglected to wire or write long ago, the chance was somewhat less than at these penny-back weight machines.

"We're full to the brim and running over," was the word at the Copley-Plaza. "Take a look about you."

One "took a look" and saw, in concourse and lobby, pretty girls in furs and colors by scores, undergrads with the sacrifice of many raccoons slung nonchalantly across crooked arms, a group of "dads" who played the game when nobody yelled about ring-marks, or footmarks for that matter and well-dressed mothers, present to chaperone and ask all manner of questions.

And behind and in front and all around were piles of baggage and blankets and fur coats. All waiting for room assignments and the chance to get settled.

MANY DANCES TONIGHT.

The scene was common at all the hotels as the first of the 32 special trains running over the New Haven and Boston and Albany roads rolled into the South Station. The station saw a gala crowd unsurpassed, good-natured in the prospect of tonight and tomorrow.

Boston's narrow and principal thoroughfares present almost a solid front of Crimson and Blue, with specially decorated store windows containing banners and footballs and ulsters in anticipation of a sudden Winter.

There is plenty of Harvard money in town, and as each train brings new armies of Eli grads and undergrads there is more than enough to top it. The boys from New Haven have the courage of their convictions based upon a nearly perfect season, and old John Harvard, though he may have taken it under cover, never yet passed up a bet.

Over in Harvard Square, which has blossomed forth like the blush on a maiden's cheek, the boys with the pipes and without the hats, spread the "dope" in whispers. Last night's great mass meeting had its effect, the confidence that was lacking has appeared and today the word goes forth: "Remember '25."

If Harvard wins tomorrow it will please but it will not surprise Harvard square.

Automobiles in the Hub today bore the registration plates of every State in the East and not a few from the Far West. The old grad is back.

$150 A BRACE.

Two hundred police—Boston, Cambridge and Metropolitan—are prepared to handle the crowd. A set of traffic regulations not unlike those of other years, will govern all movement in vicinity of the Stadium tomorrow. All vehicular traffic will be barred in that area from Quincy street to Brattle street in Harvard square, to Boylston street over the Larz Anderson bridge to North Harvard street, Brighton, and as far to Western avenue.

Persons used to parking their cars in Soldiers Field will find Harvard's historic old athletic ground barred to parking tomorrow. Instead, the Harvard A. A. has opened up the playing field in the rear of the business school bounded by North Harvard street and Western avenue. The only entrance to this space is from Western avenue.

In no game since the ancient rivalry between the New Haven and Cambridge institutions flamed into a classic of the gridiron, have tickets to a Harvard-Yale football game been so scarce.

The "specs," who manage by hook or crook to lay their hands upon admissions to every popular pastime, have a few. A very few. They want $35, $50 and $150 a pair for them, depending upon the section of Stadium in which they are located.

If you don't want to pay that price there are plenty willing to, they say.

OIL CONTEMPT PROBER QUITS

Washington, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A peppery exchange between District Attorney Peyton Gordon and Justice Frederick L. Siddons put new life today in the oil jury tampering case.

Mr. Gordon, one of a committee of three appointed by the Justice to determine if there had been contempt of his court in events leading to a mistrial in the Fall-Sinclair case, resigned from the committee, writing to the Justice that he was convinced at the time the mistrial was ordered there was reasonable cause to believe that a criminal contempt had been committed, and that he was then ready to prosecute.

Feeling this way, he did not believe he could serve on a committee of inquiry inasmuch as he had already presented the case to the Grand Jury.

Justice Siddons, in accepting the resignation, expressed regret that a member of the bar of the court of long standing, "who believes that a contempt of that court, of a grave character, has been committed, seeks to be relieved or excused when called upon by that court to see if contempt had been committed and to vindicate the court's authority."

The inquiry, Justice Siddons added, was to determine whether in the national capital the administration of justice in one of the established courts "may be successfully flouted and defied."

SENATE PLANS EARLY ACTION

Washington, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Disposition of the contests over the seats of Senators Smith of Illinois, and Vare of Pennsylvania, both Republicans, by the Christmas holidays is planned by Senate leaders.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, wants Congress in a position to adjourn by the opening of the national party conventions next June and to that end he is hoping for early action on the tax reduction bill as well as the Smith-Vare cases.

The tax measure which is promised the Senate before the Christmas holidays by the House, can be disposed of, the Senator believes before March 15 when first quarterly income tax payments are due.

Flood legislation, involving appropriations, he would push through to an early conclusion.

LAUD SHEPARD ART EXHIBIT

John S. Lawrence, president of the New England Council, commends the Exposition of Industrial Arts at The Shepard Stores in a letter to John Shepard, Jr.

Mr. Lawrence says: "A line to congratulate you and your associates on your splendid co-operation in the display of Industrial Art in New England, which few people realize is being produced in substantial quantities right here. This move on your part serves as a stimulant to management, to labor, and to capital and gives the public expression of confidence to those who need it and are entitled to it."

This morning, in the Colonial Restaurant, George Taylor Plowman spoke on "Art in Industry From the Artist's Standpoint." Mr. Plowman, whose etchings are famous both here and abroad, made many interesting comments.

"Industry is becoming increasingly awake to the fact that good art is good business," said Mr. Plowman.

"The revolt against a slavish worship of the past has started the best craftsmen to searching for the life of today in their motifs. There has always been a strong faction among artists who viewed with scorn those who found employment in industries. Today more and more of these artists are employed in the Industrial Arts."

SENATOR MOSES DECLINES BOOM FOR PRESIDENT

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 18.—George H[illegible] Moses, senior Senator from New Hampshire, stood before kings, gazed at the riches proffered him, and cast them aside "because he must keep his public word inviolate."

In the presence of more than 2[illegible] of the political powers that be in the Granite State, Senator Moses smilingly [illegible] any desire for the [illegible] honor that lies within the [illegible] of a citizen of the United States—that of President—and gave for his reason that he was pledged to Herbert C. Hoover.

"I am by no means insensible of the spirit of loyalty and friendship which prompted the action you have taken," he declared. "When I heard you change the name of this club from that of 'Moses for Senator' to that of 'Moses for President' I could not escape the feeling that you had taken out a charter in perpetuity, because I cannot believe the honor of the presidency will come soon again to New England.

"And although I [illegible] pledged word stands and I shall go through with it.

"It stands for the [illegible] for President Herbert C. Hoover.

WOULD RELEASE THEM

"Even if you should [illegible] and seek to assert [illegible] the [illegible] I should [illegible] in order that [illegible] word might remain [illegible]. I should still go to the nomination of the man to whom I have already pledged my fealty—Herbert C. Hoover."

Senator Moses was the guest of the Moses for Senator Club formed for the purpose of furthering his candidacy for that office last year.

When William [illegible], president of that organization, acting upon a motion of William J. Fowe[illegible] and harkening to a unanimous vote of the ten score members, declared that the name of the club was changed to that of "Moses for President," that last honored worthy rose to his feet in protest, only to be drowned in shouts of acclamation.

PRAISED BY SULLIVAN.

E. Mark Sullivan, former corporation counsel of the City of Boston, cast the first tribute before the senior Senator of New Hampshire when he declared him to be "a man diligent about his own business—one who stands before kings."

"The only possible objection to Senator Moses as a presidential candidate," he said, "is that he comes from New England.

"But you Republicans are not sectional. It makes no difference where a man comes from if he has the qualification for the [illegible]."

Secretary of State [illegible], representing Governor Huntley N. Spaulding of New Hampshire, paid a glowing tribute to the Senator [illegible] number of votes [illegible] Moses has gathered in [illegible].

ECONOMY RESTS ON GRADING OF SCHOOL PUPILS

Economy will become a fact in the Boston school system only when [illegible] are graded so that [illegible] are placed in charge of [illegible] with whom they can work to advantage.

[illegible] trained in failure is not [illegible] to a community, a child [illegible] tasks graded to his [illegible].

[illegible] children progress more rapidly through schools than do sickly [illegible].

[illegible] of teachers constitute approximately [illegible] per cent of total expenditures for schools. Study of the [illegible] and spirit of leadership [illegible] more to affect quality of [illegible] of teachers than any [illegible] study.

THREE TYPES OF STUDIES.

These are observations of Assistant Professor I. O. Cummings of the Harvard Graduate School of [illegible] in a report on his preliminary study of Boston's educational system, a report made to the finance commission, by which he was employed.

The report was submitted today to Mayor Nichols. It recommends three types of studies of the Boston school system, at a cost of $50,000 for the three. The studies recommended are:

1—By a disinterested professional agency utilizing assistance of the staff of the department under consideration.

2—Studies under direction of a professional agency, in which members of the staff make studies under the [illegible] direction of the agency.

3—Studies with assistance of specialists in particular fields, by committees of professional staff appointed by the superintendent of schools in consultation with the director of [illegible].

Under Prof. Cummings's recommendations, there would be studied:

Building costs, standards of room types, coordination of school committee staff, entire school health program, classification of children, organization of supervisory staff, organization of high schools, school costs, vocations, and prevocational shopwork, functioning of school committee and commercial education.

The Harvard expert said in his report:

It would make for economy to have older buildings and smaller units which are expensive in upkeep replaced.

Making Movie Actors of Waifs in Russia

Moscow, Nov. 18 (I.N.S.).—Homeless waifs of Soviet Russia are being turned into movie actors. This scheme was devised by the Department of Education as a means of attempting to keep the ragamuffins contented in orphan homes.

Movie directors were driven frantic during the first attempts to get the waifs to take acting seriously. Some of the youngsters disobeyed all orders by twisting their faces into grotesque masks and sticking out their tongues. Later, however, the combination of work and play was successfully drummed into their minds.

Increases Capital

The Harvard Trust Company today filed with Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook articles of amendment to increase the capital stock from $500,000 to $750,000 by the issuance against surplus of 2[illegible] additional shares of $100 par value.

9 DEAD IN WAKE OF FLOOD AND BLIZZARD

New York, Nov. 18 (A. P.)—A storm that swept through the East left in its wake today a death list of at least six persons and a string of damaged cities, towns and villages extending from Washington to the Canadian border.

In addition to these three other deaths are reported in a blizzard that has tied up traffic and caused much distress in Chicago and other parts of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

High winds and rain that caused serious damage and the loss of one life in Washington, brought a threat of a new flood to New England and hit the metropolitan district of New York, Upper New York State and some parts of Pennsylvania with unusual severity.

FOUR MOTORISTS DEAD.

Slippery roads and a heavy mist were believed responsible for the drowning of three persons near Syracuse when their automobile plunged down a 30-foot embankment into a barge canal.

A motorist was killed by a train on a grade crossing at Hawthorne, N. J., when rain obstructed his vision. Another man was drowned in the Alleghany River when a ferryboat was swept from its moorings.

Upper New York State reported heavy damage from streams that overflowed their banks.

VILLAGE FLOODED.

The village of Philadelphia, N. Y., with a population of about 1,500, was flooded when the banks of the Indian River, near the border, overflowed. A number of families were removed from their homes in row boats.

The heaviest rain in ten years at Ogdensburg flooded streets to a depth of two feet and interrupted electric service.

Fears were expressed for the safety of a dam impounding the Oswegatchie River watershed.

Tornado Damage at Washington $1,000,000

Washington, Nov. 18 (A P).—A check-up today in the wake of the tornado that swooped down on the capitol and its environs late yesterday revealed a toll of one dead, about 100 injured and property damage of approximately $1,000,000.

With relief and restoration work well under way District of Columbia authorities, meeting with Red Cross officials, announced that the capital could handle the situation without outside assistance.

Comprehensive reports to the authorities listed $400,00 damage to the naval air station at Anacostia, Va., across the river from Washington; about $900,000 property damage in the southeast and northeast quarters of the city, and $100,000 to the navy yard, on the Potomac in the southeast section. Alexandria Va., and nearby Maryland towns suffered losses estimaed at $200,000.

The only fatality resulted when lightning that accompanied the swirling winds and torrential rains struck a negro woman.

When the tornado struck the Naval Air station, seaplane crews were at work in the hangars. Eight men suffered cuts and bruises, and an unknown number of carrier pigeons were killed when their loft was demolished.

Six planes, with a replacement value of $100,000, were damaged. Two barracks buildings were wrecked and another partly unroofed, while three hangars, the Armory and other storerooms were severely damaged.

The air station's report said the tornado registered a velocity of 9[illegible] miles an hour, the recording instrument's maximum, and lasted about two minutes.

Three Dead in Blizzard That Ties Up Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A P.)—A swirling blizzard of sleet and snow that followed close on the heels of a freezing gale from the Northwest almost halted traffic in northern Illinois and Indiana and southern Wisconsin, blanketed the states under two inches of snow.

Three people were killed and many injured in automobile accidents due to the storm. In Chicago wrecked cars were drawn alongside the curb as their occupants sought shelter from the storm, and garage owners reported themselves swamped under emergency calls.

Hundreds of Chicago's floating population were caught unawares and hunted lodging in the police stations.

Snow and cold prevail throughout the lake states. Mayor Thompson on a hunting trip in Wisconsin, was reported almost snowbound, while Governor Green of Michigan, with another hunting party, was snowed in and telephoned that he did not expect to get clear before the end of the week.

ULSTER RUM BILL KEEPS PARLIAMENT UP ALL NIGHT

Belfast, Ireland, Nov. 18 (A P.).—The liquor amending bill kept the Ulster Parliament up all night, the first time such a thing has happened. The bill has stirred much interest and members of Parliament, knowing a prolonged session was in sight, attended the meeting with supplies of food and liquids of various kinds.

Says 5,000,000 Autos Will Be Produced in Coming Year

New York, Nov. 18 (A P.)—Five million automobiles will be produced next year in the United States and Canada during the greatest prosperity this country has ever known, in the opinion of John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of General Motors.

The estimate, which includes new Fords, is for a 40 per cent gain over this year.

WOMAN AFIRE LEAPS FROM WINDOW TO SAVE BABIES

New York, Nov. 18 (I N S.)—When flaming grease from a [illegible] spattered Mrs. [illegible] Colon and transformed her into a torch she jumped out of a window in her home to save the lives of her two baby grandchildren. Her effort to prevent the apartment from catching fire would have been entirely successful if she hadn't brushed window draperies in her plunge. They caught fire.

Firemen extinguished the blaze and rescued Pauline Colon, two years old, and Ramon, her five-months-old brother. The grandmother's condition is serious.

Latest Dance Steps to Be Taught in Church

Pittsburgh, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A dancing school, where all the latest steps are to be taught by competent professional teachers, is the newest addition to St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church. The Rev. Waldo Amos, rector, said the church hall would be used every Friday evening for the young people of the neighborhood who desired to learn the modern dance steps.

He added it was part of the parish program to make the church interesting for young folk.

Those who enter the dance class will pay nominal dues to defray the expenses for an orchestra and instructors.

IT'S FLAPPER OF 51, 61, THAT'S SCARING 'EM

Philadelphia, Nov. 18 (A.P.)—One reason for "modern juvenile delinquency," in the opinion of the Rev. Dr. W. E. J. Gratz, a delegate to the annual meeting of the Methodist Board of Home Missions and Church Extensions, is probably the fact that too many mothers are wearing out slippers on the dance floor rather than in the old-fashioned disciplinary spanking of their children.

Dr. Gratz is editor of the Epworth Herald, official organ of the young people in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"I do not worry half so much about the flapper who is 15 and 16 years old," he said, "as I do about the flapper who is 51 and 61. If you get the flappers of 51 into church and imbued with the spirit of the church so that they help re-establish family altars then you will not have to trouble about the flappers of 15.

"Whether modern dress is wrong or not is all in your own mind. Personally I think that the modern dress is more healthy, more modest than the old time bustle and corset. There is none of the old time finicky fear of exposing an ankle. The young people of today have a franker and more wholesome attitude towards things in general. The younger girls were never so beautiful as today. I congratulate the young men of this generation."

MISS OLMSTEAD SIGNS UP WITH PARAMOUNT

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Nov. 18.—It's been three years since Gertrude Olmstead has been on the Paramount lot. That's why everybody knew there must be a contract in the offing when she appeared at the studio yesterday. Everyone, for a change, was right. Gertrude came to put her signature to a contract which gives her the title of Richard Dix's leading woman.

She furnished the feminine appeal in "The Traveling Salesman"—the old play that was such a riot on the stage when father was courting mother. "The Traveling Salesman," by the bye, is resurrected from the archives. It was made with Wallace Reid some years ago and taken out of its wrappings when there wasn't an available play for Richard Dix. Mal St. Clair, who is directing Richard, can be seen almost any pleasant afternoon in a corner at the Paramount Studios, talking to Richard on the comedy of the old time play.

I believe "The Traveling Salesman" is the same play that Frank McIntyre scored such a hit in many years ago.

Lillian Gish's plans—her future, I mean—make one of the subjects occupying the attention of many Hollywood people during the long Fall evenings. What will Lillian do next and when? A man who should know about such things has Miss Gish's future all mapped out. It may or may not be true. I am of the guild the sort that usually listens. Joseph Schenck, at the moment, is in New York. So is Lillian.

There seems very little doubt that Mr. Schenck will sign her for one picture a year, giving her the chance to return to D. W. Griffith. In her quiet way Miss Gish has always let it be known she only considered there was one director in the world and his first name starts with "D" and the last with "G." So, that's that.

The chances are that Norma Shearer will not have any wait between pictures. The moment she finishes "The Traveling Saleslady" she will begin work on "Trelawney of the Wells." Arthur Sidney Franklin, the director, has completely recovered. In fact he is already on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot making preparations for "Trelawney."

* * *

The style of wearing one's own natural hair is in vogue in Hollywood. Victoria Mix came back from Europe with her blond hair a deep dark brown. She announced that this becoming chestnut was really the original color of her hair before she became a blonde long ago for picture purposes. I noticed Margaret Livingston's hair greatly subdued in shade.

GIRL SETTLES '$1000 FOR LIFE LOVE SUIT'

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.)—The $22,000 suit of Miss Clara O'Reilly, once of Denver, against William Alexander, wealthy insurance broker, ended suddenly today. Parties to the action announced the suit had been amicably settled but did not reveal the terms.

Miss O'Reilly had claimed the amount sued for as due under an agreement by which Alexander promised her $1,000 a month for life. Alexander acknowledged the agreement and admitted having paid the $1,000 installments for several months, but denied having promised to continue the payments through Miss O'Reilly's life.

Several letters written by him to her were read, bringing from Alexander the statement that he could not understand why he had frequently praised Miss O'Reilly's "wonderful character."

Counsel for Alexander attributed the settlement to intervention by Judge McGoldrick, who presided. Discussion between counsel for both sides, brought about by the court, had resulted in the withdrawal of all charges against Alexander, he said, and the suit had been settled "in such a manner as to leave no rancor."

OUSTED TEACHER TELLS HER STORY TO JUDGE

Mrs. Della Clifford, ousted as a school teacher in Lynn, but successful candidate for election to the school committee in the recent election there, told her story to Justice Pierce of the Supreme Court today in an effort to compel Mayor Bauer and the school committee to reinstate her as teacher.

When Justice Pierce determines the facts in the case the matter will go to the full bench for decision whether or not, as a point of law, Mrs. Clifford was entitled to a public hearing on her removal.

SEEK THIEVES WHO GOT $200 LOOT IN PARSONAGE

Dorchester police are searching for thieves today who entered the parsonage of the Baker Memorial Church, Uphams Corner, and made a getaway with $200 worth of jewelry, property of Rev. Frederick Palladino, D. D., pastor.

SMASHES WINDOWS AS HE SPEEDS BY IN AUTO

New Bedford, Nov. 18 (A.P.)—An automobilist who speeds through the streets plunging large stones through windows is being sought by police here. For the fourth day police this morning heard the story of a window smashed in the night. As in four previous cases the householder looked out of the window to see an automobile disappearing.

ARREST SEVEN SUSPECTS IN ROBBERIES

K[illegible]kland street, Cambridge, and Jack [illegible], twenty-five, of No. 8[illegible] M[illegible] street, Somerville, were locked up at Station 1 on suspicion [illegible] breaking and entering in the night [illegible] Standard Grocery Company warehouse.

Frank Cambria of No. 33 Williams street, Chelsea, and his son, Paul, were held at the Chelsea station on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Cambria and his son were arraigned in Chelsea court and their case, on charges of receiving stolen property, was continued to November [illegible].

[illegible] will be arraigned in the same court on a [illegible] [illegible] tomorrow morning.

A truck owned by a Boston firm with miscellaneous groceries valued at $297 was seized as containing stolen property.

Bennet and Fiel[illegible] are employes of the trucking firm.

Detectives assisted the police in uncovering the method of the alleged thieves. Secreting themselves in the rafters of the Standard Grocery Company's warehouse, two of the detectives watched as three men entered and removed a load. As the truck was being unloaded Boston and Chelsea police made the arrests.

The alleged thieves had made their forays regularly three times a week for the past six months, it was estimated. They worked in the early part of the night, pretending to be absorbed in a game of dice as an excuse for lingering after having completed their day's work.

When the wharf watchman whose habits they had studied would be occupied in a distant section of his patrol, they would make their haul.

[illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a truckload [illegible] through whenever the watchman [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] intent [illegible] upon [illegible] dice.

SHADOW OTHERS

Other truck drivers are being [illegible] to determine the identity of [illegible] accomplices. The police are [illegible] the belief too that there may be several "fences" for the loot.

The "ring" had also preyed upon M. Weiner & Company, among other wholesalers on the wharf. [illegible] months ago the Weiners locked and barricaded the door connecting their warehouse with other warehouses on the wharf and frustrated the thieves. The band had master keys that gave them entry to any of a score of plants in the vicinity, it is said, and afforded them an excellent choice and variety for their own "trade."

The stolen goods were distributed among a large number of small retail grocers in Chelsea, Revere and other suburbs. These retailers will all be questioned, with the possibility of several arrests among them.

A definite figure canot be given in estimating the total loss of Battery Wharf wholesalers, the police say, until new inventories have been made. Detectives who have been working on the case for several months agreed that the loss will approximate $[illegible] and perhaps much more.

Sergeant Weston Shurey and Special Officer Gran[illegible] B. Spinney of Station 1 were praised by the detectives for assistance in uncovering the thefts.

2 GIRLS SOUGHT IN SHOOTING

two girls was told by Herbert Smith, a chum of Buckley, who was also on the ride, making the fourth in the party.

Smith said today that during the ride Buckley wore a white bracelet, set with some stones, which he said had been given him by a girl.

When Buckley was interviewed at the hospital yesterday by the mother of the dead girl, she cried out "Liar" in answer to his assertion that Grace Mills gave him her bracelet as a pledge that she would keep the midnight tryst. The mother said Grace had on the bracelet when she was put to bed a few hours before the tryst.

Smith, who corroborated Buckley's story of an intended trip to Vermont, seeking jobs in the flood area the next day, told Lieut. Peter J. Tracy of the Waltham police that the two girls, whose identities are unknown, were chance acquaintances.

They were taken into the car at their home in West Newton according to Smith. The youths called for the girls whom they had met once before, although they did not know their names. Smith said he would try to find the West Newton house for the police.

For [illegible] three hours the girls were driven around, out through Wa[illegible] and [illegible] sections around Wa[illegible] and Weston, and then Smith said they were taken home again.

He and Buckley ate in a lunch room afterward and then Buckley drove himself and Smith to the rooming house of Mrs. James Murphy, where they had taken a room for the night.

It was the landlady of this house who told police yesterday of Buckley's statement to her that they intended leaving early the morning for Vermont.

Smith declared that after leaving the girls and returning to the rooming house, Buckley said he had an appointment but would return to the room in a short time.

Then Smith left the machine and entered the house while Buckley drove away. Smith said he was not told of the nature of the appointment.

Buckley's condition today was described at the hospital as "very low," although earlier in the day, Medical Examiner Thomas [illegible] [illegible]gher had visited the alleged murderer and had stated [illegible] that he had an even chance for recovery.

It has been found impossible to stay the hemorrhage that is filling Buckley's lungs, and pneumonia is feared.

Nungesser Alive, Mind Gone, Says Mother

Paris, Nov. 18 (I.N.S.)—"My son is the victim of amnesia. He received a blow on the head and he still lives somewhere, but he doesn't know where he is or who he is."

Mme. Nungesser made this statement this afternoon when Theodore Rousseau, manager of the Paris branch of the Guaranty Trust Company, presented her with a check for 100,000 francs and 30,000 francs worth of French bonds—the tribute of American admirers of Captain Charles Nungesser, who, with Francois Coli, has been missing many months after hopping off from Paris on an attempted flight across the Atlantic Ocean.

"This money belongs to my son," said Mme. Nungesser as she accepted the gift. "It is very kind of the Americans to remember me but I will not touch the money. We'll save it until we have news of my son."

Women Jurors Bring Sewing as 'Stubborn Men' Balk Verdict

Kansas City, Nov. 18 (A.P.)—Eight women jurors, who found the four men of the panel too stubborn to reach a verdict in a liquor case here after a 13-hour session, have agreed to resume deliberations today—but they will bring their sewing.

"There is no hope of agreeing, because the men are so stubborn," Mrs. Nettie M. Reid, forewoman, told the court. She indicated all the women favored conviction.

Frank Belmont, only one of the jurors who sampled the evidence, told the court the men were satisfied with the evidence at hand.

STATE EMPLOYMENT SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

A slight improvement in employment in the manufacturing industries of the State is revealed from the monthly survey figures of the State Department of Labor and Industries.

In the 1,003 establishments checked, the October record shows an increase of 3-10 of 1 per cent in the number of wage earners employed. On the other hand, however, the aggregate pay-roll fell off 2.1 per cent, and the aggregate weekly earnings per person decreased 2.5 per cent.

LACONIA WITH 500 DUE IN BOSTON ON SUNDAY

The Cunard liner Laconia, with nearly 500 passengers aboard is due to dock in Boston Sunday afternoon. One hundred and thirty passengers will debark at this port after which the ship will continue to New York. The Hamburg-American liner Cleveland will also arive Sunday.

Flood Benefit Planned

A benefit entertainment for the flood relief fund will be given in the Lexington High School Auditorium, this evening, at 8 o'clock, under the direction of the Stanley Hill Post, No. 33, American Legion, of that town, Albert A. Ross being chairman.

TODAY

States finance and prosperity National banks, including Alaska and Hawaii, report to the comptroller of the currency, resources amounting to twenty-seven billion two hundred and seventeen million eight hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars, beating all records.

This doesn't include trust companies, and other great money institutions.

This is a rich country, getting richer every minute. Its citizens earn each year ten billions more than it costs them to live. Don't sell the United States short.

A mother and father hid $60 in a bureau drawer telling only their thirteen-year-old daughter, Christina, where the money was. It disappeared. Three times the mother accused the child. The girl denied that she had stolen the money, then drank carbolic acid and may die. Not all parents realize a child's intensity of feeling.

Members of the clergy will discuss the drama today and listen to Mr. Otto H. Kahn tell about it. Producers of certain plays say they hope the "church and drama association" will attack their plays. "We would put a pastor on the payroll if he would denounce us." A dog gladly digs up a decaying bone if you tell him where to find it. Many citizens, unfortunately, will attend a rotten play, if you tell him where it is.

HUNT FOR MAN WHO KEPT ARSENAL IN HIS HOME

Albany, Cal., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A country-wide search for John Mannerstam, head of the Pacific Arms Company of San Francisco, was instituted today as the aftermath of a raid at his home here, in which a veritable arsenal of machine guns, rifles, revolvers and ammunition was seized.

The raid was made on a tip from Cleveland and Kent, O., police saying arms shipments had been made to the latter town and that they believed the arms company was planning to supply gangsters in the East with guns and ammunition on a large scale.

THOUSANDS IN CHINA FLEE FAMINE REGION

Peking, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Refugees from the famine in Shantung Province are flocking into Tsinan and it is estimated 20,000 are begging in the streets, poorly clad despite the wintry weather.

The Chinese international famine relief commission is without funds but is hopeful of obtaining a small grant from the government famine relief bureau. The resources of all the Chinese agencies, however, are not sufficient to mitigate the suffering appreciably and the war lords are too absorbed in their conflict to help greatly.

'PURITANIC' SCHOOL BOARD FACES RECALL OVER SKIRTS

Detroit, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The school board of Hazel Park, a suburb, which recently emerged loser in a fight to compel school teachers to wear long smocks, is the target of recall petitions being circulated among taxpayers. The petitions, reported to have been signed by 3,000 residents, charge the board is guilty of malfeasance in connection with $2,000 annual salary.

SALLY'S SHOULDERS

by Beatrice Burton
Author of "The HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC—

The Story of a Boston Girl, Clever and Pretty

READ THIS FIRST

SALLY JEROME, 20, is the mainstay of her family. Her father had deserted his wife and his children. Besides Sally there are the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, aged 21. Millie, the family beauty, is always losing jobs when her employers "get gay" with her.

Sally works at home in the mornings, for her mother is a semi-invalid. In the afternoons she works for MR. PEEVEY, an elderly eccentric, who does a small mail-order business in Chauncy street. TED SLOAN, who lives with his mother in the flat below the Jerome flat in Hemenway street, is a "dancing fool," and Sally has become very friendly with him. But when he tries to make love to her she pulls him up short. Sally sees a handsome man in the elevator. She learns that he is John Nye, with an office across the hall. Sally smashes a bottle of Mr. Peevey's milk in the corridor, and young Nye happens along and goes to buy another bottle. Ted proposes to Sally, but she promises her mother not to wed him.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER V.

MRS JEROME dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief.

"Sally," she said forlornly, buttering a little piece of the Bohemian rye bread and popping it into her mouth. "It isn't only that I'm afraid you'll marry Ted Sloan. I don't want you to marry anybody—at least, not for a long time. What on earth would I do without you, sick as I am. And anyway, married life isn't all rose leaves and sugar plums either. Don't you be in a hurry to jump into it. Look at me! I wish I'd never heard the word 'marry.'"

"I can't think married life is so terrible, Mother," Sally said firmly after a minute or two. Her blue eyes were serious and thoughtful. "Or so many people wouldn't get married and live together, would they?"

Mrs. Jerome's face began to pucker up again, and Sally saw that for some reason or other she was going to cry again.

"Of course, that doesn't mean that I want to get married," she hurried to say, "because I don't—and there isn't a chance that I'll marry for perfect ages, if I ever do. Ted Sloan's practically the only man I know except Beau and Mr. Peevey—and I wouldn't marry Ted if he were the last man on earth."

"Well, I'm glad to hear you say that, at any rate," her mother answered with a long sigh.

Mrs. Jerome's sick headaches were the family tragedy. They had begun nine years before, soon after her husband had left. And they had been growing worse ever since.

The only person in the family who did not take them seriously was her sister-in-law, Miss Emily Jerome, a smart spinster who lived alone in the old Jerome homestead. Aunt Emily only sniffed when she heard about the headaches.

"Of course she has them!" she was wont to say in her tart way. "My head would ache too if I lived the way she does! Lying around in bed half the time with her nose in a book and eating herself to death. If she'd get up and stir around she wouldn't have so many aches and pains. She's no more sick than I am. And I certainly am not. She's got the dry rot, that's all!"

There was a good deal of truth in what Aunt Emily had to say on the subject. Mrs. Jerome wasn't half so sick as she was unhappy. She was filled with a deep disgust with life, and had been ever since she had lost her husband.

Now that her children were grown and no longer needed her, she had no interest in life except the books in which she buried her humiliation and her sorrow. Her sickroom was

ALL RUM CARS CAN BE HELD

JUDGE SAYS PARKING NO LOOPHOLE

If prohibition agents find liquor in a parked automobile the Federal government can confiscate the car, Judge James A. Lowell ruled today in Federal Court, thereby upsetting previous decisions and the schemes of many bootleggers.

Judge Lowell ruled, moreover, that liquor-carrying cars can be held by the government against all claims of parties holding liens.

This defeats a common ruse of bootleggers to have a friend come into court and claim the liquor car was innocently lent to the man arrested. Another ruse was to get a car from a dealer, make a small down-payment, surrender the car upon arrest and see the dealer get his car back from the government by proving his lien.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Elihu D. Stone is responsible for this important decision.

DEMANDS $1,200 A WEEK

Mrs. Tillie L Leopold is suing her millionaire husband, Joseph, for separation and $1,200 a week in New York Supreme Court. Her husband is fighting the case and says he spent $100,000 a year for her clothes.

ARREST 3 IN HUB BANK FRAUD

Three men were arrested in the Jamaica Plain Trust Company Bank today charged with larceny in connection with alleged bogus soliciting of advertising payments, when police set a trap following receipt of orders for funds purporting to contain the signature of G. W. Bunker, treasurer of the bank.

The trio gave their names as Edward Flaherty, alias Kane, and Michael R. Daley, alias Francis [illegible], both of Grace road, Lynn, and Francis R. [illegible] of High Rock terrace, Lynn.

The men, according to the police story, picked advertisements from various publications and presented them for payment with the forged order of Treasurer Bunker.

The men pleaded not guilty in Roxbury District Court and were held in bonds of $6,000 for a hearing November 25.

PLANS TO WED HUB MAN
Nancy Hoyt Wynne of Washington, who received word today that she had been granted a divorce from Gerald W. Wynne in Paris. Her engagement to Edward D. Curtis of Boston was recently announced. It is expected that a wedding date will now be announced soon. Curtis is connected with the Paris branch of the Guaranty Trust Company.

MEXICO BACKS UP ON OIL

Washington, Nov. 18 (I.N.S.)—Decision of the Mexican Supreme Court knocking out the alleged confiscatory features of the Mexican petroleum law with respect to one American oil company "opens the way to an amicable [illegible] and possibly to ultimate solution of our controversy with Mexico over its petroleum law," Secretary Kellogg [illegible] today in commenting on the ruling.

While the decision applied only to the Mexican Petroleum Company, an American firm, the State Department is confident the principle laid down will eventually be extended to all American oil firms in Mexico. Disappointment was expressed by officials here, however, that the court did not dispose of the entire dispute in a single sweeping decision declaring the retroactive articles unconstitutional.

U. S. KNOWS NO BAN ON DUCHESS

Hartford, Nov. 18 (A.P.)—So far as the United States government is concerned, no question has yet been raised as to the legality of the American citizenship reacquired last July of Duchess Mary Elsie Moore Torlonia, who is suing Duke Marino Torlonia in the Superior court at Bridgeport for divorce on the ground of infidelity.

"Apparently she is an American citizen, and an American citizen cannot be deported," Assistant District Attorney G. H. Cohen said, in connection with the claims of counsel for the duke that the former Elsie Moore of Greenwich acquired her citizenship illegally.

If the duchess entered the country illegally, Cohen said, his department would on complaint institute suit to have the citizenship cancelled.

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

VOICING THE GREAT DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADOS

WHILE the winds blew away all outside broadcasts we realized the beauty and diversity of local programs. There was the Maxwell program with its array of old masters. Smith Brothers, WEEI vocalized their harmonies to such tunes as "The Rickety Rackety Shack" and "Rain," and "In the Woodshed." "Rain" was in keeping with the weather.

* * *

Following Maxwell on the WBZ wave was the Balkite opera, "Pagliacci." The famous Leoncavallo story of the clowns and their tragic ending was broadcast in all its grandeur and majesty. Opera lovers like these programs.

It was a "big" night for WEEI. In rapid and scintillating succession Howard Comfort, Tower Adventurer, Sentinels and Eskimos, and Smith Twins followed, filling the whole evening with lightness and gayety. WNAC filled most of the evening with the sparkling "Met Trio." What time was left on the end was capably filled by Joe Rines' popular music.

Strange enough that while KDKA Pittsburgh, is usually poor with us, last night when we could get nothing else outside KDKA was strong. We will not say we heard nothing else, for we caught plenty of static and WGY. Schenectady was audible. Nothing else but a few squeals were available, although we used our seven tubes.

* * *

Broadcasting dance music is one of the easiest ways to satisfy a hungry audience. Ninety-five per cent. of the people enjoy well played, popular music. Although popular dance bands head the list in popularity they are near the bottom in distinctiveness.

It is common to hear a good dance orchestra on the air. It is hard to compare two dozen orchestras for sifting out the best because they duplicate in many ways. To become distinctive it is forced to eliminate tin pan jazz. The usual cheap lay out of cornets, saxophones and violins has a limited following. Clever combinations of instruments and instrumental and vocal supplements lift a dance orchestra into distinction.

* * *

We mentioned Chet Frost's brisk work. Joe Rines, WEEI WNAC, is another leader whose pleasing radio music is welcome. It gets over an atmosphere of jovial cheer. And when a vocal unit, "The Blue Birds," broadcasts smooth flowing music in their background. For another reason, Joe's broadcasts have distinction. Joe has a pleasant easily understandable voice. Some broadcasters announcers sound hard. Not so with Joe.

Of course, a man can't change the color of his eyes or the sound of his voice. Jimmie Gallagher announces so fast we never have been able to analyze his voice. Jimmie gets distinction to his broadcast by an impression of speed, pep, performance. We get the impression the place is on fire and is burning Jimmie's coat. His whole broadcast leaves an invigorated feeling.

* * *

Thanksgiving we shall comment on "How to change your sewing machine into a radio."

NEW RECTIFIER WORKS WELL

By C. WILLIAM RADOS

The Ceco half wave rectifier tube type "R-81" is a tube designed for use in B-eliminators and power packs. It is to be used with alternating current supply in the various types of "electrified" sets.

A batch of the Ceco rectifier tubes was submitted to us for test. They all batched up very well. Two were used in a power amplifier, public address system, in a theatre with success. The theatre patrons didn't know they were paying to hear us experiment.

Then we tried one in a seven tube radio using the "AC" tubes. The Ceco we used was a "full wave rectifier."

TYPE DETERMINES TUBES

Whether a "full wave" or "half wave" tube is used depends on the radio you have. No more comes with a full tube than with a half wave tube. In a power pack two tubes may be used.

HOW IT WORKS

The usual manner in which a Ceco rectifier tube is used is thus. The owner has a radio he wants to run from the lamp socket. If he has a big console and equipment all ready he just plugs in and inserts the Ceco where shown. If not he does otherwise. Otherwise usually works by stepping up the 110 volts alternating current from a lamp socket and then passing it through the rectifier tube. The tube changes it to direct current which is then suitable for plates of the radio tubes. As much power must be passed the tube is made rugged, large and well insulated.

BALKITE HOUR

Without the uncertainty of untried apparatus—And without any sacrifice in quality of reception

There are two ways you can own an AC receiver. One is to discard your present set and buy a new and untried receiver, using a new and untried type of tube, at a sacrifice of quality of reception.

The other way is to add Balkite Electric "AB" to your present set. Balkite Electric "AB" contains no batteries and supplies radio power from the light socket. It makes any standard set an electric receiver.

This method makes possible the use of standard type tubes, which give by far the clearest and truest reproduction. There is no difficulty in controlling volume. No noise, no AC hum. No crackling, no booming, no blasting. Instead the same high standard of reception to which you are accustomed.

By all means go to AC reception. Its convenience is the greatest radio improvement you could buy. But let your AC receiver be a standard radio set equipped with Balkite Electric "AB."

Two models, $64.50 and $74.50. Ask your dealer. Fansteel Products Company, Inc., North Chicago, Ill.

NO BENEFIT GAME FOR 'BIG GREEN'

President Hopkins of Dartmouth Says the Team Is Through for Season

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 18 (A. P.).—President Ernest Martin Hopkins of Dartmouth College today definitely set at rest reports that Dartmouth and Georgetown would play a post-season football game in the Harvard Stadium or anywhere else for the benefit of New England flood sufferers.

In a statement he said that even if the Dartmouth athletic authorities had approved of such a contest approval would not have been given by the Dartmouth administration.

"The report concerning the Dartmouth-Georgetown game in this morning's papers," President Hopkins said, "is without any semblance of truth. Such a game would require the approval of the Athletic Council and this has never been given.

"If the council were to view the matter with favor, further approval of the faculty committee on athletics and of the administration would be necessary before the game could be played. Neither of these could be secured as matters stand.

"The Dartmouth football season is over, the team has disbanded and no further games will be played."

B. U. TO TRY SEASON TICKET METHOD IN 1928

Boston University athletic committee will adopt a new plan to increase the athletic finances of the college next Fall. Instead of the usual method of selling tickets for each game there will be season tickets sold at the beginning of the year.

There is no athletic fee at Boston University and the entire revenue from sports comes from the college treasury. The returns from the various sports in most cases show a loss. The football gains are not enough to balance the deficit made by the other sports.

Harvard Money Out
For 10 to 4 Odds
Get Game in London

Picking Coaches
Everybody Does It
Peres Good Team

By NICK FLATLEY

HARVARD MONEY APPEARS WITH LONG ODDS

HARVARD money is beginning to appear in large bunches in spots where sport speculation is the thing. This is not as startling as it might sound. The boys are not betting even money that the Crimson will rise in unexpected might and flail the powerful sons of Eli. The boys think that Yale should win the ball game.

But the odds have hauled the straps off the bankrolls. Yale men have been cheering about their football team, and waving wads of money in the faces of their Harvard friends. They have been offering two to one ever since the Tiger game, until they are hoarse and weary.

Nick Flatley

That price didn't tempt out any Harvard gold to speak of, save in cases where judgment was warped somewhat by sentiment. So the Eli supporters have pushed the quotation up to 10 to 4. And the Harvard money is showing.

No big football game should be a 2 to 1 shot, ever. Too many things can happen. The better team can go blooey mentally, or the weaker one have a sudden wild rush of genius. That has happened times without number.

So when the smart money owners hear that 5 to 2 is being "layed" on anything, they proceed to hop aboard. One of Boston's big gamblers took a trip to Cambridge this morning, and placed four hundred dollars against a thousand that a couple of Yale grads were anxious to put to work.

Down on State Street yesterday, one wager of $500 against $1,250 was reported. The speculators are out today proffering any amounts at one to three, and will shade that price slightly, if they have to. A short end is always good in a Yale-Harvard game. The Bulldogs, you know, have scored but one touchdown since 1907, in the Harvard Stadium.

This game takes the whole world by the ears. It is the big news story of a day regardless of war, death, disaster or desolation. Boys in the diamond mines at Kimberley will forget to examine Kaffirs waiting for the tidings. Harvard and Yale grads in China and the other far parts of the world will be agog, as they say, until they know the verdict.

The Harvard Club of London will get a running story of the game, right in the backyard of the Prince of Wales.

It will be shot from the Stadium over Postal wires and cable, right into the club lounging room. The boys can sip their half and half, and the Scotch and—while the details are trickling in. It will be seven o'clock in the evening in Lunnon when the kick-off booms down the Stadium wind.

Quite an international affair, this Harvard-Yale football game.

JOE CROSBY'S NOSE IS NOT THE ONLY THING THAT WILL BE PLASTERED AT THE STADIUM.

Harvard knew that the city wooden stand for those wooden stands much longer. The foregoing shows what football does for one.

HERE'S HOW FOOTBALL COACH STORIES START

A MAN who intimated that he was close to the affairs of Boston College told Stanley Cofall that he was being considered for the job of football coaching at that institution. That's how a telegram from Baltimore reads. That shows how most of the imaginary coaches are appointed when teams go wrong.

Some bird thinks a certain coach might sail into a job. So he wires a few newspapers. Reporters eager for yarns start to investigate. The rumors are mentioned in the papers. Fans begin to wonder who the new bird may be.

The college authorities are pestered with queries, and when they get phone weary it is assumed that silence means the story has some foundation in truth. That idea is broadcast, and many times the ingenious scheme railroads a coach into a pretty good job.

There is always a drive for the position when some coach's team goes sour. The country is crowded with young men who think that all they need is the chance to hook on somewhere to out-Rockne the famous Knute.

We have no doubt that Boston College athletic heads have been propositioned by at least twenty willing candidates since that Georgetown licking. Boston College has not had time to make any announcement, will not break into print until after the Holy Cross game.

Any coach needs more than a year to establish himself. Leo Daley stepped into a tough spot, succeeding a popular idol like Cav. He didn't have a chance to organize his own staff, or anything else. He deserves a longer shot, if he wants it.

A future home, with padded walls
And bars across the doors,
Awaits the boys who spend their time
Aguessing football scores.

PERE MARQUETTES HAVE A FINE GRID TEAM

THERE will be a lot of real football on exhibition when Pere Marquette and the New York Giants collide at Fenway Park tomorrow. The Giants are one of the best teams in the professional class, while the Pere Marquettes stand all by themselves in the semi-pro world.

This Boston team is a fine aggregation, a bunch of crack players who keep at football because they love the game. They get no money from it. What is collected is whacked up at the end of the year. Last season that amounted to about $100 per athlete. The boys who play in the league demand that per game, or quit.

The Pere Marquette bunch can give any of them a battle, for the simple reason that they have team spirit and a real desire to win, which the others haven't. Incidentally, they boast in Billy O'Leary a star who could have been chasing All-American honors for the past few years had he been able to go to college. Tomorrow's game will be a real take-in.

Flaying Creates New Harvard Pep

A rejuvenated Harvard undergraduate spirit has emerged from the smoldering fumes of the bombshell thrown into the midst by Coach Arnold Horween and Huntington "Tacks" Hardwick at the Yale game mass meeting.

The Crimson undergrads took the blows of the speakers right on the chin but today they are ready to retaliate.

With their spirit termed as "rotten" and their actions termed as "childish" the Crimson undergrads today are out to show Horween and Hardwick that they can play just as important a part in this coming football game as the football eleven which faces Yale tomorrow.

While Horween bit right into the skin of the students by his biting remark of being "fair-weather friends," the remarks of Hardwick went right to the hearts of the football team when he criticised the present squad for breaking training in public.

The team is, to mention it in mild terms, sore at Hardwick, and the new spirit instilled in the undergraduates has even penetrated into the present eleven.

All Harvard today is fighting mad. Students and players are sore. Yale is their meat. The curt remarks of the former football stars have caused quite a furore and the end is not near by any means.

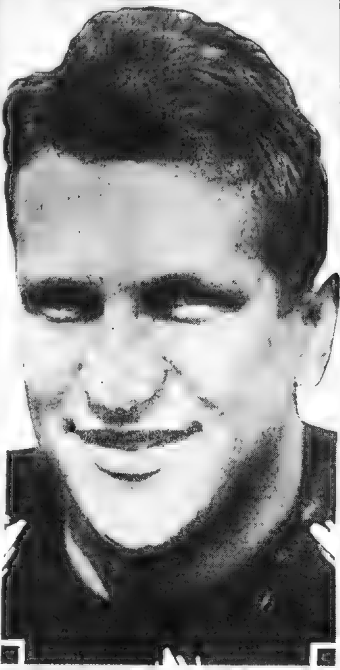
YALE NOSE IT, TOO



HARVARD SCENTS TROUBLE TOMORROW

Even if Joe Crosby can't. Joe is just as sore in mind as his nose is on its tip, where a cute carbuncle has developed. Crosby always had a great nose for the ball. Now it's greater than ever. This is how the Crosby beezer looks at present. If he gets into the Yale game it might suddenly change its appearance and become somewhat scattered.

ST. MARY TEAM ISSUES CHALLENGE TO ALLEN A. A.

The St. Mary's Catholic Club of Charlestown challenge the Allen A. A. to a football game to be played Thanksgiving Day.

The St. Mary's have a fast club this year. The eleven is composed of former high school stars.

Greenleaf Leads Wood

New York, Nov. 18 (I. N. S.).—After being defeated yesterday for the first time since the start of his special match, Ralph Greenleaf today entered the eighth block of his play with Arthur Wood with a total score advantage of 884 to 519. Woods defeated Greenleaf 147 to 127 yesterday.

'BIG BLUE' HERE FOR CRIMSON BATTLE

came with the squad in the capacity of an assistant coach. He refused to comment on his disbarment or tomorrow's game.

The coaches said before the team left New Haven that their plans are unchanged from any detail which has been given out.

They expect to start Captain Webster largely because the brave, intrepid captain insists on leading his men into the thick of the climax game of the schedule. He is in no condition to remain long in the contest.

The stiffness had not gone from the wrenched shoulder of Quarterback Hoben today and it is not clear how long he will be kept in the game. Yale has a large reserve squad of guards because of the poor condition of Webster and Greene, the regulars, and Norman Hall, replacing Webster, Elmer Kell supplanting Greene, and Bob Spiel and Berry Ryan as reserves, are all likely to be summoned for acute gridiron duty before curfew is reached tomorrow.

The same campaign policy has been followed at quarterback. Karl Billhardt is likely to run the eleven most of the game and Bob Hall is a probable relief field general, following the exit of Hoben.

The injured shoulder of Johnny Garvey has rapidly improved this week and he will head the Yale line-wrecking attack tomorrow as the ground-gaining ace because of the removal of Bruce Caldwell. Hammersley and Goodwine have been picked as his alternates.

BOBBY JONES GIVEN HOME

Atlanta, Nov. 18 (A. P.).—Bobby Jones is to have a new home, given him by friends in the city as a token of their regard for him as "a man, a golfer and a gentleman."

Announcement was made that he will be presented tonight with a fund of several thousand dollars, obtained by voluntary subscription, for the purpose of giving him a home of his own selection, to be built immediately. The presentation will be made at a buffet supper at the Atlanta Athletic Club, at which Bobby will be the guest of honor.

Details of the affair, however, have been kept in strict secrecy, even its sponsors having hidden their identity behind a veil of anonymity. No suggestion as to the amount of the fund has been given, beyond the fact that it is "several thousand dollars," but some estimate it will run well up in five figures.

The British open, national amateur and Southern open golf champion at present resides on fashionable Peachtree road. He is in his second year at Emory University Law School.

Harvard Is Ready for the Supreme Test

Harvard's preparations have been completed.

The Crimson is ready for the combat with the greatest Yale team in many years on the Stadium sward tomorrow afternoon. Harvard has mended together its scattered knitting and has added many novelties to its present football vocabulary to shout at the Eli bulldog tomorrow afternoon.

This afternoon's workout for the Crimson will be one of the lightest of the year. In fact there would not be any assembly of the football eleven except for the fact that the irate Crimson student body has planned a huge rally for their athletes this afternoon.

Coach Arnold Horween has ordered a half hour signal drill starting at two o'clock behind closed doors this afternoon. Following this drill the entire student body led by the Crimson band will enter the mammoth horseshoe to witness the team in action. Said action, however, will merely consist of the preliminary stuff pulled before the regular football game.

At three o'clock the Crimson will relinquish the field to the Yale team, which will practice until four o'clock. Both squads will repair to different country clubs for supper with the Crimson players returning to their dormitory rooms to spend the night.

LITTLE HOPE FOR CROSBY.

There was little hope today that Joe Crosby would even get into the game. This morning he was still confined to his bed at the Stillman Infirmary. The boil on his nose was lanced again today and the protusion on his nose is undergoing a draining period today.

Coach Horween refuses to give up the hope of using his star back. He has ordered a special helmet with nose guard attached and a special cleat for the Jamaica Plain boy's injured ankle.

"Of course, I'll play," said Crosby from his cot at the Harvard hospital today. "The doctors feel that this boil will be all right by tonight and take it from me I'll be in there tomorrow. I have not been at practice all week it is true but I feel that I can catch up with the rest of the boys this afternoon. I belong on the football field and not in this cot."

All Harvard athletic officials have become quite superstitious of late. Horween refused to take a two-dollar bill in change this morning and the optimist, Trainer Eddie Farrell, is none too cocky regarding the outcome. One Crimson coach just missed passing under a ladder in the square coming from breakfast and Coach Horween all but went into ecstasies.

WEATHER WORRIES COACH.

The main concern of the coaches right now is the weather. A soggy field will render Harvard's cause practically hopeless. Harvard's light backfield would be smothered against the sturdy Yale line on a wet field. Horween plans in being prepared for the worst, however, and has ordered all mud cleats sent to the cobbler for a thorough supervision.

This weather racket keeps the naming of the starting Crimson eleven still in doubt. It has been rumored that with a dry field Horween will start Howie Burns at quarter with Wally Harper at one of the halfback berths. A wet field will find Gordon Brown calling the plays, with Guarnaccia filling in for Harper, so the rumor goes.

The chances are, however, that Horween will stick to his present carrying quartet of Brown, Guarnaccia, French and Potter, no matter what the conditions are tomor-

FEW OTHER CLASSY GAMES

Outside H.-Y. Battle, the B. C.-Holy Cross Tilt on Saturday Is Attractive

By BILL GRIMES

From an Eastern viewpoint, Harvard and Yale will have the call of the football world, tomorrow. However, there are many other games on the list, which in their respective sectors, are regarded with as much importance as the annual Crimson and Blue tussle.

Much interest will center around the Tufts-Mass. Aggies conflict. The Medford team is one of the very few undefeated and untied elevens in the country.

There is a merry battle to be staged up in Worcester when Coach Ed Robinson takes his Boston University charges up to Mt. St. Mary's for a workout against Cleo O'Donnell's Holy Cross Crusaders.

The Terriers surprised the fans a year ago by slipping a 3 to 0 victory over Holy Cross.

Boston College will show its wares down in Hartford, Conn., where the boys from University Heights will be opposed by the Connecticut Aggies.

Major Frank W. Cavanaugh will have a tough time tomorrow watching his Fordham boys take a licking from Georgetown. The Washington eleven is one of the best in the country, while Fordham has not made a favorable impression this Fall.

The big game of the Western Conference will be at Ann Arbor, where Michigan and Minnesota will mix it up. This should be a real battle with the odds slightly in favor of Coach Spears' team.

Ohio State takes on Illinois, Indiana and Purdue meet, Coach Stagg sends his Chicago boys against Wisconsin and Dick Hanley's Northwesterners will go after Iowa.

Consensus for Grid Scores Tomorrow

Consensus Has Yale Winning 25 to 3

Consensus takes its final fling at picking grid winners today.

The members of the Boston Evening American sport staff have pondered long and earnestly over tomorrow's eight big college contests, and if the results don't agree with the consensus, there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth, and how!

These scores were set down by the scribes in the hope of ending the forecasting season in a blaze of glory. It is their hope that consensus will be so near correct on every guess that the fans will keep this final performance in mind until another grid season rolls around.

One thing is certain. The boys will all stand or fall together on every result except that of the Michigan-Minnesota game, for the team picked to win in each of the other seven contests is an unanimous choice and the losing team is not credited with being able to score more than three points.

ALL AGREE ON YALE.

Yale is going to beat Harvard in the outstanding game on the card by the score of 25 to 3, according to consensus. The three points awarded the Crimson don't stand for a field goal, though it is impossible to score that number of points in any other manner. It is the result, instead, of four of the eight pickers giving Harvard a touchdown. If the Crimson scores six points or less, the reputation of the prognosticators will not suffer to any great extent. If the Horween charges exceed that total, it will make all the boys look bad.

Some of the pickers look for Harvard to hold the Elis to a narrow margin of victory, while others expect the Bulldog to run wild. One and all, however, pick the Blue to triumph.

Boston College and Holy Cross who will meet in the big ball game a week from tomorrow are unanimous choices to turn back Connecticut Aggies and Boston University respectively. The Jesuit elevens should win with ease, according to the figures, but the opposition may score a touchdown in either or both scraps.

FINALLY PICK BROWN.

Tufts and Georgetown are going to engage in gridiron massacres, the figures say, the former by swamping Mass. Aggies 27 to 0 and the latter by burying Major Cavanaugh's Fordham eleven 45 to 0.

Brown, after losing six straight games, is scheduled to return to the victory trail at the expense of New Hampshire University. The score of this battle is 23 to 3 in favor of the Bruins.

The Michigan-Minnesota clash, the stellar Western Conference melee of the afternoon, promises to be as close as last week's Yale-Princeton contest.

The scribes are all up in the air over this one. Five favor the Gophers, two like Michigan and one looks for a tie. Consensus on the game is 9 to 6 in favor of Minnesota. Anything is likely to happen in this game.

SONNY FOLEY PICKED TO COACH RINDGE HOCKEY

Sonny Foley, former Cambridge Latin and B. C. all around star in hockey, baseball and football, has been named as coach of the Rindge Tech hockey team for this Winter. Sonny flashed his best hockey at centre for Boston College and was All College choice for his position.

Terriers' Final Work for Purple Game

Boston University will hold its last practice session of the year at Riverside today for its football windup with Holy Cross at Fitton Field, Worcester, tomorrow. Both the Terriers and the Crusaders are only in fair shape and neither will be able to show its full strength.

The Holy Cross students and alumni are demanding an overwhelming victory tomorrow to make up for the humiliation of last year's defeat.

O'Donnell, according to [illegible], cannot keep his first team in the game long as his regulars are in poor condition. The game with Marquette last week has taken considerable out of the first eleven.

Another problem confronting Coach O'Donnell is the plays he will have to instruct his quarterback to use. The Crusader mentor knows that his team will be carefully watched and he cannot open up, therefore the Purple will have to show to its best advantage with straight football and reserve material.

Boston University on the other hand has none of these problems to contend with. With the exception of three men the squad is in good shape. The three men that are out will be missed but two of them may be able to play part of the game.

Coaches Robinson, Brown and Mc[illegible] do not have to save their men. This is the last B. U. game.

The Terriers [illegible] spread offense [illegible] this game. A few of the plays have been tried out in the last two games but real effective ones have been worked out behind canvas at the tennis courts at Riverside.

Powerful Tufts Team Leaves for Amherst

With its last practice a matter of history and with its coaches' final instructions and congratulations still fresh in mind, the unconquered Jumbo gridiron team departed this noon for Amherst, where tomorrow it will come to grips with its traditional rival, M. A. C., on Alumni Field.

It is the eighth and final game for the 1927 Jumbo squad. Never before in the 70 odd years of Tufts' existence as a knowledge mill, has a team wearing the Brown and Blue arrived at its closing contest with a record behind it such as the present outfit lays claim upon.

Harvard Team Ready for Yale Battle

row Potter will do the kicking in either group.

Harvard's main threat against the Eli will be a long pass with either Guarnaccia or Potter heaving the pigskin. Strong, French or Brown will be the likely receivers and they have received plenty of drill in catching aerial heaves this week.

For some unprecedented reason, Harvard has closed the betting odds to 10 to 6. There is a feeling that Yale has cooked her goose and that the Crimson will reach her culminating point tomorrow. Bets which had Yale winning by 15 points were taken up almost as soon as they were offered.

Practically every hotel room is taken up and fifteen of the leading hotels in the Hub announced last night that they were sold out.

The Yale student invasion arrived here early this morning with the special trains adding more to the big crowd at all hours throughout the day. The New Haven students feel that this is their year and they are prepared to let Boston know it before sundown on Sunday night.

Every large hotel will be a rendezvous for the undergraduates tonight. Pregame dances will be scattered throughout the city with plenty of noise in the vicinity of Cambridge.

BURKETT MAY COACH EAGLES

Jesse Burkett may succeed Jack Slattery as head coach of Boston College's baseball team. Burkett has been negotiating with Graduate Manager of Athletics Frank Reynolds and seems to lead the list of candidates who are under consideration for the berth vacated by the new manager of the Braves.

Burkett is an old-timer at the national pastime. He has been in every branch of the game and knows baseball thoroughly. Jesse first gained fame with St. Louis Nationals when he led the league in hitting. Those were the days when it took a mighty man to knock the [illegible] out of the pasture.

Burkett shifted around from club to club as was customary in the old days. He played with many of the big league outfits until he saw the handwriting on the wall and then took over a managerial job with Worcester of the N. E. League.

Burkett coached at Holy Cross and Dartmouth and was very successful. Last Summer he was located in New York where he acted in the role of assistant coach and scout for the Giants.

It appears that Boston College will not adopt a graduate coaching system. The Eagles would like to, but they haven't any grads who seem [illegible] successfully coaching the B. C. nine.

CASEYS AT THE BAT

WISE AND VERY Foxy are this pair of Pere Marquette K. C. players who oppose the New York Giants in the Big Game at Fenway Park tomorrow. Holding the ball is Framingham Billy Wise, former Holy Cross flash. At right is Billy O'Leary, the South Boston phantom who never reached college, which may or may not be the reason he's a good football player.

Charlestown will enter the game a favorite. In other years East Boston has used Charlestown as a trial horse for the big game with Southie. But today it will be different. Charlestown has already defeated Southie and Jamaica.

Two Menus for That Holiday Dinner

By MARTHA LEE.

FROM the time our Pilgrim fathers served their first Thanksgiving dinner in the autumn of 1621, turkey has been considered our Thanksgiving meat. There's no denying [illegible] on our [illegible]

But [illegible] These [illegible] be very reasonable. Here are menus I hope will be of help.

Menu No. 1.
Serves 12 people for $6.50.
Fruit Cocktail
Crown Roast of Pork

Stuffed Onions Celery Curls
Coffee Spanish Cream

Crown Roast of Pork—Order a six or eight pound [illegible] the butcher [illegible] crown. Sprinkle with salt, dredge with flour and [illegible] a dripping pan [illegible] bones down. Place in a hot oven [illegible] half, basting every fifteen minutes with the fat from the pan.

Do not add water to the roast. Cut up small bits of pork trimmings and place them in the pan to provide sufficient fat for basting. Now [illegible] stuffing for crown [illegible] Remove to platter [illegible] Make paper frills for the ends of the bones and put a bunch of celery in the centre of the crown.

Stuffed Onions—Remove the skins from medium to large onions. Put a slice from the top of each and par[illegible] but not quite tender [illegible]

[illegible]

Menu No. 2.
Serves 12 people, $10.
Grapefruit Sections
Roast Duck with
Orange Sauce and Apple Stuffing
Sweet Potato Croquettes
White Potatoes on Half Shell
Cole Slaw
Baked Squash Cider
Holiday Cream

[illegible]—Mix one and one [illegible] chopped celery [illegible] cups of chopped [illegible] tablespoons of butter [illegible] cups of [illegible] one and one-half [illegible] salt and pepper [illegible] each [illegible] are filled with [illegible]

[illegible] Croquettes—Two [illegible] sweet potatoes, one [illegible] one-quarter teaspoon [illegible] two eggs [illegible] Press [illegible] beat in the egg [illegible] flat patties [illegible] with milk. Roll again in crumbs. Fry in hot Crisco, 375 degrees F., until brown.

Roast Duck—Wash the duck, remove the pin feathers and singe well. Be sure the inside is entirely clean. Fill with the apple stuffing. Then tie the tail securely with a long string and fasten to the crossed drum sticks (unless you use the metal skewers which I myself much prefer). Dredge with flour and seasonings and put in a hot oven, 475 degrees, for thirty minutes.

Then reduce heat to moderate 350 degrees and finish the roasting, allowing twenty minutes for each pound. Baste every ten minutes during last half hour of baking and [illegible] orange sauce.

Orange Sauce—Three tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup stock, one-half teaspoon sugar, two grains cayenne, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, grated rind of one-fourth orange, juice of one orange.

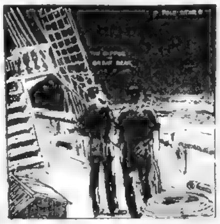
Put butter in saucepan and when melted add flour and cook until brown and smooth. Add stock and seasonings and simmer ten minutes. Remove from fire and add grated rind and juice of one orange.

Holiday Cream—One and one-half tablespoons gelatine, one-quarter cup cold water, three eggs, one-half cup sugar, two cups milk, two tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup [illegible] juice, one cup crushed macaroons and one cup cherries. Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes.

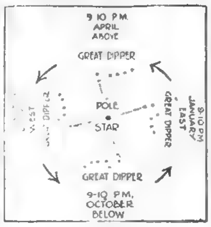
Separate eggs and slightly beat yolks with sugar, add milk and cook in top of double boiler until mixture coats a spoon. Remove from fire, add soaked gelatine and stir until dissolved. Add lemon and cherry juices. When cool, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and pour over crushed macaroons. Turn into mold and chill. Serve garnished with cherries.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

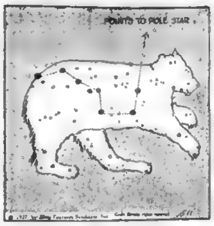
The Story of the Stars (Polaris, the Great Bear and Scorpio) By Garrett P. Serviss



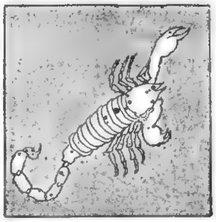
The fixed position of the pole star was noticed in early days, and the Phoenician navigators used that star and the "Bears" circling around it as a guide to direction [illegible] sailors [illegible]



The pole star, Polaris, can be used as a guide on both land and sea. The two outer stars in the bowl of the "Great Dipper" are famous as "The Pointers," since they "point" at all times to the pole star (see diagram above).



The Great Bear, whose name may possibly date from the time when our ancestors lived in caves, forms a very striking figure among the northern stars. The "Dipper" is only a part of the Bear. Here again the two "Pointers" are indicated.



Among the easiest constellations to recognize is Scorpio, the Scorpion, the best seen in Summer. It contains the fiery red star, Antares. Mythology made it represent the scorpion that sprang out of the ground and killed Orion.

'You Said It, Marceline!'

By MARCELINE D'ALROY.

TODAY, a woman is as OLD as
Her HIP LINE.
It seems that when women go
SHOPPING now, it no longer
Depends what they HAVE in their HEADS, but what they have NOT
On their HIPS that DETERMINES whether they go to
The Misses or to the Mrs.
Departments in the STORES.
Today, ALL girls from eighteen
To FORTY-EIGHT wear
IDENTICAL little gowns in
The SAME colors, lines and FABRICS
But there is one difference
Between the FLAPPER and the MATRON. The YOUNG girl can Wear INEXPENSIVE fabric
GLOVES, simple pumps and a little
Cheap hat and look PERFECT!
The OLDER woman must wear
REAL suede Gloves,
REAL lizard shoes,
A SMART HAT of good line, and
AN expensive POCKETBOOK,
Because, AFTER twenty-eight
A woman is JUDGED by the ACCESSORIES she carries!

Fat a Protection Against Consumption

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.

IF you happen to be fat enough to [illegible] against infection, especially [illegible] Some very [illegible] views along this line [illegible] expressed by W. [illegible] of Surgeons of [illegible]

A [illegible] of fat-eaters and [illegible] are like a [illegible] who are about to [illegible] treatment. It is [illegible] a group that [illegible] in some way very helpful, if not essential, to the formation of [illegible] fat bodies.

The fat-shy, with their low resistance, must be very cautious. They [illegible] tolerate a very small initial dose and carefully increased subsequent doses. Inhaling a very few bacilli at first, they can deal only very slowly and gradually with an increasing number.

With the fat-eater, however, liberties can be taken. His higher resistance allows him to take a bigger initial dose with safety and to be much more careless about the subsequent doses. For instance, he can inhale with impunity, a comparatively large dose of tubercle bacilli, and increase the number rapidly without coming to harm.

Doses which would be fatal to the fat-shy are positively beneficial to him, for they help him to build up an ever-increasing resistance. He can stand anything in the way of infection but a series of overwhelming doses to start with.

The LOVELORN by Beatrice Fairfax

A Love Serial of Boston Girls by an Authority on the Affairs of the Heart

CHAPTER 17.

ON the same evening that Georgie had first gone to Ernest Brooks's studio, Ann had met Bill Warren on the street, had taken him in hand as if he were a bad child, and walked off to dinner with him.

And [illegible] it was Bill Warren's apartment she went to.

This was a big studio, with divans and easels and a Jap servant. It was on the top floor of a house that had been altered into small, unpretentious flats.

A square room littered with a [illegible] pipes, photographs, books, memoranda, a few sporting pictures and framed [illegible] Edam cheese, a shelf full of [illegible], four [illegible] of the far West, two cans of [illegible], a bathrobe in [illegible], and a hundred other things composed Bill Warren's [illegible].

Leading from this was a smaller room with a [illegible] and a two-burner stove on a box [illegible]. Neckties [illegible] towel rack. An open [illegible] the stove.

"But I've never seen anything so awful in all my life!" Ann exclaimed. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

"You ought to see it when I get fixed up," he said. "What this is wonderful compared to what it [illegible]."

"But how do you [illegible]?"

"Have to, I guess. [illegible]"

He sank down in a chair, and though he was smiling, it was plain that he was uncomfortable and depressed. Ann found a cup, and [illegible] the cool water and put it [illegible].

[illegible]

He did sit quietly watching [illegible]

Lifting a picture [illegible] the stove, Ann [illegible] a pretty, depleted gin bottle.

'What Do You Want Me to Do With This?' Ann Demanded

"What do you want me to do with this?" she demanded.

"Give it to your worst enemy," he said with a sick grin. "It nearly polished me off, I'll tell you!"

He looked around, with unbelieving eyes when at last she was through.

"This does look like a different place," he admitted. "You know, Ann, this is mighty nice of you. I always said you were about the nicest girl I ever knew, anyway."

Then his mouth drooped and he looked away. The compliment had lost its value, for Ann knew he was thinking of Georgie again.

"Let's eat right here," she suggested. "I can cook something on the little stove if you've got any saucepans or dishes."

"Will you really? Say, that would be great!" he [illegible].

"What would you like?"

"Oh, I don't know. [illegible] and—yes, all I can think of is coffee."

She picked up her hat.

"Where are you going?"

"I'm going out to buy some food, of course, before all the stores are shut."

"Fine. Here's some money—is that enough?"

"I said I was going to buy some food, not order a banquet."

"Well, bring me back the change then, and be sure it's the right change!"

"You know what you can do, don't you?" she asked, with a smile.

Strange how easy it was to talk to him, how easy it was to be natural, and say everything she felt—or nearly everything!

She felt strangely happy when she was out buying things, buying things for which she was going to prepare for Bill. He was feeling badly and she was taking care of him. They were all alone, and there wasn't any loud jazz music or silly talk to disturb them. It was heavenly.

She came back and found him prowling around again. "I'm looking for some aspirin," he admitted.

"You don't need aspirin, you need food. Wait, I'll fix another bandage for you."

He lay back docilely, only looking up at her with his frank, youthful eyes.

"Why are you so good to me?" he asked simply.

"Don't be silly. Why shouldn't I be good to you? You're so helpless anyway, someone has to take care of you."

She had bought some [illegible] and some watercress and a bottle of milk. Also she had discovered a not too indigestible looking pie in the window of a bakery. Also there were rolls and sweet butter, and some tinned chicken broth.

Bill Threw Remarks at Her Which She Did Not Answer

There were just enough pans to prepare this meal. While she was cooking Bill threw remarks at her which she did not answer. But untroubled by that fact, he went on talking.

Then she found a small table, that was heavy in spite of its size, and started to push and drag it towards him. He jumped from his chair quickly, and their hands touched. She thought for a moment he was going to kiss her, but he seemed quite suddenly to change his mind.

As they ate, she watched out for his comfort, saw that he had everything he needed, salt, pepper, water, little things. He accepted them superbly, not even noticing. But he did notice the deep quality of her sympathy which had transformed the little room.

The meal seemed to work wonders for him. "I feel lots better," he admitted. "Oh, Lord, what a fool I've been the past week! Ann, if you knew what I've done—!"

"I don't want to hear about it," she said quickly, but suddenly she was hurt and furious. She looked at him with narrowed eyes. She imagined him making love to girls who took all that as a matter of course, and she was amazed at the rush of jealousy that rose in her.

But it was gone as soon as it had come. And she had found a pipe for him and filled it, and put it in his fingers, and struck a match.

"Why are you so good to me?" he said again, as if wondering.

"I don't know. Perhaps because I like you," she answered with a smile.

He smiled back. He could not read the intensity, the outpouring of her heart in that simple sentence.

"Gee, it would be wonderful to be married to someone like you!" he commented.

Then she got up, saying she must go, and when he asked her why, she could not answer.

"But you've only just come here," he protested.

"What you need is lots of sleep," she said.

"But when am I going to see you again?"

"That's up to you, Bill," she said, and left.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, for only 75 cents, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

Remove the dead scarf skin, quickly and surely with pure mercolized wax. Get an ounce from your druggist and use as directed. The wax absorbs the lifeless, surface skin and with it freckles, blackheads, dry parched skin, pimples and all facial blemishes. To quickly remove wrinkles and age signs, use as face lotion 1 ounce powdered saxolite dissolved in a half pint witch hazel.

"Sally's Shoulders"; Millie Tells of Roadhouse Trip

a kind of safe harbor from the world. There she hid herself from the people who pitied her, month in and month out, year after year.

She was, as Aunt Emily said, "no more sick than I'm sick." But she was broken-hearted. And that, after all, is the worst of all the ills that we mortals are heir to.

Sally [illegible] and kissed her on her soft [illegible]. "Dear, would [illegible] of that rye bread, wouldn't you?" she asked. "I'll get you some right now."

"I'll have a little of that applesauce we had last night for supper, too, if there's any of it left," her mother called as she left the room.

Ted Sloan was still sitting on the corner of the table when Sally went back into the kitchen for the applesauce.

"You still here, old thing?" she asked him with light carelessness. "I'm sorry I'm so busy right now. But I am—and after I take this applesauce to mother, I've got to get supper for Beau and myself. So if you've anything to do, you'd better not wait for me."

"I've all the time in the world," he answered slowly and deliberately. "I can sit here 'til morning if necessary."

"But it isn't necessary!" Sally's voice was sharp all at once. "And honestly, I can't do a thing with you sitting there, staring at me like an owl. You make me nervous . . . Go on home like a nice boy and then I'll go out dancing with you tomorrow night—maybe!"

The thing that first had drawn Sally to Ted Sloan was his dancing. She never had danced very well until one night when he had come upstairs to teach her the "Charleston." That had been two years before, and since then they had danced together once or twice a week. Ted's mother said they were "dancing fools" and sarcastically advised them to get a job on a vaudeville circuit.

He got up now to go downstairs to her. "Well, if I'm going to be kicked out I'd better hit the skids myself," he said, and went, banging the door behind [illegible] "see you tomorrow. I want to talk to you—serious!"

Beau came [illegible] into the kitchen in a pair of [illegible] slippers. His blond hair was rumpled, and his eyes looked as if he needed sleep.

"Thought you were going to get me some chow," he grumbled. "And instead of that, you're out here chewing the fat with Sloan! What's the big idea, anyway?"

"The big idea is that I couldn't get rid of him!" cried Sally, cheerfully, defending herself. She was always explaining herself and making apologies to the family.

"You slice that cold roast beef in the icebox and I'll make you some sandwiches as soon as I give mother this applesauce," she went on. "And I must take her some more bread, too. I almost forgot that."

Beau took a step towards the icebox. But just at that instant the telephone rang and he rushed to answer it. From the tones of his voice Sally could tell that he was talking to his Mabel.

"Say, listen, Mabel wants to throw a party here," he said to her an hour later, when they had finished their supper and were doing the dishes.

Every now and then Beau would help with the work around the house. And when he did, it always meant that he had an axe to grind—a favor to ask. So Sally was not surprised now.

"When does she want to have it?" she asked.

"Tomorrow night," Beau answered, watching his sister from the corner of his light blue eyes. "Not a big party. Just a few people in to have some sandwiches and ice cream, or something. She said you'd know what to order."

"Does she want me to order the food?" asked Sally, [illegible] the tea cups. "Because I don't know what she wants, or how many people she's going to have. . . . I'd better call her up."

"No, you don't have to. She won't have more than ten. She said so," Beau assured her. "I don't see why she doesn't have them at her own place—but she always says you know how to do everything so well."

This was perfectly true. Mabel was always telling Sally what a good housekeeper she was, and how nicely she did things.

"Oh, how sweet your table looks!" she would twitter sometimes when she came to Sunday dinner and found fresh flowers on the clean [illegible]

And Sally, like most of us human things, was not [illegible].

"So now [illegible]. All right, Beau. I'll get some kind of [illegible] for tomorrow night. Only I can't be here. I've a heavy date to go dancing with Teddy."

A swift look of relief passed over Beau's handsome face, but Sally did not see it.

"How about fruit punch instead of ice cream?" she asked, and he said that would be "the cat's whiskers."

Beau was always calling things "the cat's whiskers" or "the cat's pajamas" or "the cat's bathing suit." He would use a slang phrase until it was worn thin and threadbare—until everybody else in the world had forgotten it.

[illegible] to keep on working to pay [illegible] bills."

At [illegible] Millie came home with her [illegible] misty and dreamy, and a large bunch of common white and yellow [illegible] pinned on her breast.

"Picked these in a field along the road," she said sweetly to Sally, who was still awake and reading in bed. "Johnny Davidson took me driving for millions of miles to a roadhouse in Wayland. Ever been there?"

Sally shook her head. She barely heard what her sister was saying.

"How pretty she is!" she was thinking, "particularly when she's been out in the air, and the wind has blown some of that rouge and powder off her face. John Nye is sure to fall in love with her. Sure to! Sure as fate."

Aloud she said: "Millie, I know [illegible] that you [illegible] want it."

She began to tell her about John Nye and the position in John Nye's office.

Tomorrow—Sally pays for the merrymaking!

MR. FRISBY ISSUES OPEN LETTER TO BOY SCOUTS

Frisby's favorite picture of himself

Cornered, but confident, Mr Frisby rocked political opponents today, and put Wall Street into a panic, when he suddenly reached into his brief case and brought forth an open letter to the Boy Scouts of America. For several minutes Frisby winked slyly at press representatives who crowded around him, and at stenographers who stood on tiptoe straining for a glimpse at the people's candidate.

The historic letter follows:

Boy Scouts of America and others to whom the name "Frisby" symbolizes all that is worth symbolizing will be interested to know that I have indorsed the Boy Scout movement. I take it that the plan of doing a kind deed daily is a novel idea, and well worth trying. I remember when I was a boy and took great delight in being kind to old ladies, and no one can ever say that Frisby ever struck a dumb animal when he was down.

Yours truly,

G. WASHINGTON LINCOLN FRISBY.

After reading his letter, Frisby elbowed his way past the dwindling crowd, caught a street car and waved good by. In a moment he was but a memory.

THE BIDDING

South Bids	West Bids	North Bids	East Bids

Final Bid .... Played by ....

In Monday's issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Salient Points of the Bidding

North's bid of one, instead of two or more No Trumps with an exceptionally powerful hand including 100 Aces, evidenced keen appreciation of the fact that a pre-emptive bid, prompted more to score honors than game, is of the kindergarten type of Auction Bridge rather than the advanced type. South's take-out with a seven-card suit is in no sense a weakness or rescue take-out. A take-out with a suit of extreme length and no high cards, and a take-out with a shorter suit together with high cards, are both strength take-outs. North's bid of two No Trumps is not only his natural bid with his holding, but his correct bid when confronted by a partner who does not indulge in weakness take-outs. South, having embarked upon taking out his partner's No Trump, must continue to do so to show the character of his take-out. North heeds the warning of the second take-out and passes.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. West's normal opening is the Queen of Hearts, but when opponent on left has bid and re-bid a Third Hand No Trump, to lead the Queen from a three-card suit, and thus to split his Heart equals, risks not only the loss of a trick that may be made by conserving this holding, but may set this entire suit for the opponents without gaining a trick.

Trick 5. The King of Trumps falling, Declarer has a Small Slam laid down, but determines to play for a Grand Slam. This he can make if the Queen and Jack of Hearts are both with West, provided he is able to lead Hearts twice from Dummy. Declarer plays accordingly.

Trick 8. West plays low, hoping that Declarer will not finesse the ten. West realizes that if he plays an honor, Declarer will take the trick in Dummy, put his own hand in with a ruff and then lead another Heart and finesse West's presumed remaining honor. West's best chance therefore seemed to be to play low.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN---BY HELEN ROWLAND

ONE of the things a woman most admires and envies in a man is his sweet and imperturbable SELF-CONFIDENCE!

It covers him like a coat of armor, off which all stabs at his vanity, all arrows aimed at his complacency, and all blows at his pride blithely glance, leaving his self-esteem and his egotism intact.

He never doubts that he can win a woman's love if he should care to and never fears that he may lose it, no matter what he may do.

It is harder to find a man with a genuine inferiority complex than it is to find a flapper with a genuine complexion.

No matter WHAT he may see when he looks in his mirror, he is always secretly convinced that there is SOMETHING about him—je ne sais—quoi—that is irresistible to the women.

A man is never worried as to whether a woman really loves him or not. The only thing that worries him is whether he WANTS her to love him or not.

* * *

He will cheerfully go off and leave a woman to her own devices for a week, a month or a year—and expect to come back and start right where he left off in the romance, the flirtation or the love-affair.

* * *

He never dreams that anything more attractive, more interesting or more desirable could have come into her life in the meantime.

* * *

Yet he would not think of leaving a prize pet dog out in the cold on a park bench for a week, a day or an hour, and expect to come back and find the dear little thing sitting right there waiting to greet him with a bark of joy.

* * *

No matter how plain and commonplace a man may be, he is never surprised or flattered when the most fascinating of women bestows her favors upon him. Why should he be? Hasn't he that irresistible "je ne sais quoi?"

* * *

Oh, it's a gift straight from Heaven—this beautiful, sublime masculine self-confidence! It is a charm that keeps him free from all inhibitions, jealousy, self-consciousness, anxiety and insomnia. It is his preventive against wrinkles and his secret o feternal youth! It is a magic wand, which turns everything rose-colored for him.

* * *

But it's awfully wearing on the woman who happens to be in love with him! And worse on the ones who are NOT!

Stomach Troubles Headache and Dizziness

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength and "pep," get thin and nervous and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

For 10 years Tanlac improved the health and activity of many thousands who suffered just as you do. Here is a letter from

Mr. William H. Champagne of 341 Pleasant St., Worcester, Mass.: "I was troubled a great deal from indigestion and after eating was miserable for hours. After three bottles of Tanlac those tortures are but a memory. I can eat anything and have regained my youthful strength."

Why not let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer and for thousands of others? It is marvelous to see how it relieves the most obstinate digestive troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels. How it restores appetite, vigor and sound sleep.

Tanlac is made of roots, barks and herbs—nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

SAYINGS OF MEDBURY---BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

WHILE doctors claim that calisthetics will do more than medicine toward promoting health, the only exercise the average business man gets, is taking his stenographer out to lunch.

HE strengthens his muscles by beckoning to head waiters.

HE enjoys walking and spends most of his time stepping in and out of taxicabs.

A WEALTHY man usually hires two valets. One of them draws his cold bath in the morning and the other takes it for him.

HE lies on his wife's chaise longue and reads all the physical culture magazines.

ONE fellow used to go strolling every evening and always took his secretary along to kill the mosquitoes.

IN two years he was a nervous wreck from playing croquet.

HE even had to give up dominoes. The exercise was too violent.

THE doctors finally limited his gymnastics. They allowed him to kill two gnats every morning with a fly-swatter.

HIS heart got so weak he had to give up kicking the cat.

HE was so delicate, he started losing all the hair out of his toupee.

HE used to work up a terrible perspiration winding the phonograph.

BUT they have a radio now and he can turn it on and off without sweating.

OF course, he hasn't given up all activity. He still answers the phone by himself.

HE stepped on a moth the other morning and nobody helped him.

THIS is wonderful exercise for strengthening your ankles.

AS soon as he gets a little stronger he'll be able to start grabbing for dinner checks.

CHECK grabbing is America's most popular sport, and every restaurant is a gymnasium.

"I wonder where all the flies come from?" grumbled Mrs. Jones as she swatted them in the dining room one very hot day.

There's More to This than Health!

Cleans So Thoroughly, Even Perspiration Can't Offend

All the trick laxatives in the world can't tempt people who understand the properties of cascara.

A hundred different drugs will purge the bowels, but a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew!

Your grandparents took "salts," and slowly washed away the mucous membrane with the waste! Mineral oils are better, but they leave the coating that your blood must then carry off through the pores, but when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

Don't get in the habit of taking medicine for constipation—or even for auto-intoxication. If you have the habit, stop it. A candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them and the taste tempts most grown-ups to take "more." And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight! All druggists, 10c & 25c.

AMOSKEAG'S NEW PLAN IS REVEALED

Trustees of the Amoskeag Company and the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company will meet next Monday. Common stockholders of the Amoskeag Company will be offered the privilege of exchanging their stock for $52 a share in cash; $40 a share in 20-year 6 per cent. bonds of Amoskeag Manufacturing Company and one share of its common stock. Amoskeag sold as high as 116 on the Boston exchange today.

No official interpretation of the significance of the Amoskeag Company and Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. financial transaction is made. The proposals appear rather definitely to represent the determination of trustees to offer an opportunity to Amoskeag Company common shareholders to realize upon the huge assets which lie behind the equity issue, and which have yielded no dividend return since 1924 and which, up to lately, have been accorded no recognition in the market price of the stock on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Amoskeag common has advanced this week from below 90 to a high of 116 in discounting the proposed program scheduled for next week.

It does not seem likely that Amoskeag Company, the holding concern, will be dissolved, nor will the $4.50 preferred stock of Amoskeag Company, which is callable at 100, be retired.

Amoskeag Company, the holding company, came into existence in 1925, succeeding the old manufacturing company. Latter was recapitalized in connection with the acquistion of the Parkhill Manufacturing Co. of Fitchburg. To make clear the relationship between the two concerns it may be well to point out that there are issued and outstanding of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company 285,000 preferred shares and 365,000 common shares, of which the Amoskeag Company owns 266,105 preferred shares or 93.37 per cent., and 330,000 common shares or 90.41 per cent.

The minority 6 2-3 per cent. interest in Amoskeag Manufacturing preferred is held by some of the old Parkhill interests. The stock is a $6 issue, but is non-cumulative to Jan. 1, 1929. It has paid no dividends to date. Proposal to retire the Manufacturing preferred, therefore, is largely a deal between Amoskeag Company and its own operating subsidiary.

As of June 30 last the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. reported net quick assets of $24,329,603 and property valued at $16,684,576. Assuming no change in total of quick assets, which are understood to have been on an ultra-conservative basis, the refinancing proposal by which the Amoskeag Manufacturing preferred is to be retired will involve a reduction in quick assets of the amount of the cash payment, $8,135,076, making net quick assets, $16,194,527.

THREAD PLANTS AT CAPACITY

American Thread plants are now operating 100 per cent. of instaled capacity. Machinery from the Hadley unit is being transferred to the Appleton plant.

Holyoke Board of Aldermen voted to acquire the Hadley Mill of American Thread Co. The price is $575,000 and will be provided by a bond issue maturing in annual instalments up to 1947. The plant would be used by the municipal gas and electric department for expansion and would be paid for from receipts without affecting the tax rate of Holyoke, it is claimed.

Sale of the plant is in line with American Thread's plan to concentrate activities in the Appleton and Merrick mills. The Hadley plant was obsolete so far as the thread company was concerned.

CREDIT AID FOR FLOOD AREA

R. G. Dun & Company Weekly Trade Review in this week's issue will say regarding trade conditions in Boston: Retail trade continues moderate and manufacturing and wholesaling lines still are somewhat below normal.

Merchants in the flooded area are receiving every assistance possible from their creditors and banking interests, and no failures have, as yet, been recorded. Leading jobbers and wholesalers in the district have expressed a willingness to defer payments on present indebtedness a year, or more if necessary, at the some time extending to the merchants their usual lines of credit.

The output of some of the paper mills, textile mills, and miscellaneous plants has been seriously curtailed, but it is expected that before long many of these will be able to resume production, as few are damaged seriously.

Trading in the wool market has been slow, but there are signs of some increase in buying on the part of the mills. Prices continue to tend upwards, but the domestic market still is below the foreign level. The goods market is quiet, though it is expected that more activity will materialize before long.

An Appeal to Cambridge

On Behalf of a Hospital Only Half Big Enough for the Work It Is Asked to Do

The $750,000 asked for by Cambridge Hospital is absolutely necessary if the institution is to do its work for the community.

There is NO provision in the present hospital for sick CHILDREN, but because there was no other place for them 404 were cared for last year in the same wards with adults.

The present nurses' home was designed for 50 nurses; at the present time 92 must be cared for.

Plans have been made for a modern building able to house 65 children. It will have a medical wing, a surgical wing, a nursery, a solarium and a terrace garden.

It is planned to build a Nurses' Home which will house 100 nurses, with such laboratories, training kitchens, classrooms and recreation rooms as are required for approved schools of nursing.

What the hospital MEANS to Cambridge, to every family and every resident of Cambridge, can best be told by figures.

Last year, 6,272 patients were treated, 3,791 of them house patients.

The maternity cases numbered 628, private and semi-private patients 684.

There were 823 patients who received 13,929 days of FREE care at a cost to the Hospital of $73,889.64.

This great work, this truly indispensable work, was carried on in buildings to which no addition has been made since 1913. Patients cannot be cared for where there is no room, and last year the Hospital was asked to care for TWICE AS MANY PATIENTS AS IT COULD ACCEPT.

The Building and Equipment Committee has stated the MINIMUM needs of the institution. These are the three new units referred to: (1) a children's hospital, (2) a nurses' home and (3) a private patients' building.

It seems to the Boston Evening American that the appeal to the people of the University City has been put plainly and briefly by Dr. Edmund H. Stevens, of the Board of Consultation:

> "Cambridge Hospital asks for the right to extend to the sick and injured of Cambridge the service which they need and deserve. To do so it MUST have new buildings. In the past, the Hospital has cared for thousands, but only a few have aided the Hospital. Today, the future of Cambridge Hospital rests with the entire community."

The Committee has established headquarters at 618 Atlantic National Bank Building, No. 100 Milk Street, Boston. The telephone is Hancock 5986. The chairman is Mr. James L. Paine, the honorary chairman Dr. William D. Swan, president of the Hospital since 1917.

If we know Cambridge, as we believe we do, this appeal—not of Cambridge Hospital so much as of the sick poor of Cambridge—will not be made in vain.

A Community Chest

Our Jewish Brothers Set a Good Example

What the Federation of Jewish Charities aims at in the annual drive now in progress is the collection of sufficient money in a single solicitation to support no less than FIFTEEN charitable causes throughout the year.

The range of these activities will surprise no one who knows anything of the ardent charity which animates the hearts of the more prosperous members of the community. It is outlined here only for its possible inspirational value:

Home for the Aged, Hecht Neighborhood House, Maternity Clinic, Children's Bureau, Canterbury Street Home for Children, Laura Shuman Home on the North Shore, Council of Jewish Women, Big Brother Association, Bureau of Jewish Education, Children's Aid Society, Benoth Israel Sheltering Home, United Moeth Chitem Society, Hebrew Free Burial Society, District Service.

The goal of the committees is a fund of $500,000, the largest single allotment to go to the District Service which maintains welfare centres in the West End, the South End, Dorchester, Roxbury and East Boston.

The successes reported from hour to hour by the several groups active in the campaign are only what had been anticipated. That the community chest would be filled to the point of running over has been apparent ever since Mr. F. Frank Vorenberg called the Hotel Statler meeting to order last Sunday evening and outlined the story.

Night

Will Fill the Day Some Years Hence

Days are due to vanish and only night remain. English scientists, working hard on the problem, have found that a day on earth becomes one-thousandth of a second shorter every hundred years. At this rate eternal night will arrive in eight billion years.

In the face of this startling discovery the public will remain calm, but wise men will work and save candles for the night that is coming.

If feminine styles keep on their present trend, constant darkness may be absolutely essential by that time.

Poor Lo

All He Keeps Is His Blanket

The United States Court of Appeals has handed down an opinion to the effect that St. Regis Indians have no claim to a vast tract of land in northern New York, valued at two billion dollars. Poor Lo! He is lucky to find a place to pitch his tepee.

Indians traded Manhattan Island for $24 and a barrel of whiskey. They had no business sense. They not only spent the $24, but drank the whiskey.

If they had kept only the latter to the present time they might be able to buy the island back.

GIRL DISCOVERS A NEW KIND OF JOB

By DR. FRANK CRANE

OUT in Omaha there is a girl named Josephine Platner who is in charge of what is called "The Free Building Service."

She is the daughter of a lumberman and gives advice to people contemplating erecting houses.

One's interest is always intrigued by anyone who develops a new kind of business and walks in untrodden paths.

Miss Platner's occupation is certainly a new one. She is not working for her father's lumber concern and she is not seeking directly to make money.

Her services are absolutely free and her intention is to enable people to build better homes.

Of course such service will benefit the building trades eventually, but only very indirectly.

She consults with her clients as to the best plot of ground to buy, the best materials to use in the house, the plans of the house, the proper selection of an architect or contractor, the construction of an ideal kitchen, and so on.

Many of those who have been confronted with the problem of erecting a home are conscious of their ignorance and inexperience. They know nothing about real estate nor about the building of houses. House building is an old trade and one which has certain definite requirements.

The customer is at the mercy often of those shoddy builders who build houses merely to sell. By means of this bureau he is instructed as to the best tests for the proper house and is enabled to make use of valuable information as he sets about his task.

Miss Platner wanted to be an architect, but she gravitated into this business and is now of more use to the city and community by her efforts. Her father backs her. He considers that her endeavors in the long run will redound to the advantage of his lumber business.

People certainly need advice as to building houses. So many houses are put up that are useless and inefficient that everyone ought to have access to the general information upon the subject.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

ONLY laughter sets you wholly free, quite released from every vexing need, lets you flout at world tyranny, makes you careless lord of thought and deed. Riches may unbind some weighty chains, yet such respite is but brief and small; riches bring their own dark doubts and pains . . . only laughter frees you from them all. Laugh, then, blithely as the robins sing, gaily as the larks their sweet notes call, to the winds your loss and longing fling; only laughter frees you from them all. Laughter loosens every dragging weight, sets you far above all fearful things, lets you look with wondering eyes at hate; lifts you, bears you on its silvery wings. Would you pass unscathed down all life's ways, master of unbounded liberty, trammeled neither by men's blame or praise? Only laughter sets you wholly free!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU'VE wondered about pain, haven't you, my dear? Wondered why lives should have to be hurt and troubled.

When you were a little child they told you that was God's punishment. But you didn't think much of that idea. You never had liked peevish people and the picture of a God who spent most of His time picking on his children didn't go so big with you.

Later on, you decided that pain didn't have anything to do with God. It was all a mistake. People should live perfectly happy lives—without any sorrow. That listened well. Only, unfortunately you met someone, now and then, who had never had any trouble. And they were usually just about as helpful and magnetic as a dose of hives—spoiled pests, without an ounce of sympathy in 'em. So you concluded that pain must have some purpose—even if you couldn't understand it.

I came across a phrase the other day—"the stern midwife of pain"—I think that unknown writer revealed the purpose of suffering.

We've thought of pain as an accident—something inflicted upon us. But that writer thought of it as a natural, inevitable happening, which must come with all new growth.

Look at the world around you. Always pain goes with growth—always struggle with birth.

The bursting of a seedling from the husk—the breaking of a bird from the shell—a child born in travail. Always the struggle and the hurt. But always after the struggle something that pays for all the pain.

Nothing new until something old has been broken down.

No gain until a price has been paid—

That is the law of the body, whether it is the body of a plant, a bird, an insect or a man. And that is the law of the soul. Always the struggle—always pain ministering like a "stern midwife" at birth.

Always a struggle before a man paints a picture or designs an aeroplane, writes a poem or discovers a germ. Always a difficult, racking adjustment before our narrow, selfish heart gives birth to patience and tolerance, gentleness and wisdom.

Pain—

Not a punishing rod or a pernicious pest—

But the natural accompaniment of Growth.

Try to think of that the next time sorrow comes to you. Don't say—"Why should I be afflicted with this thing? Take this bitter cup from me! Give me, instead, an easy, happy life."

COURAGE
LOV
WE GROW, THROUGH OUR OWN PAIN
11-12
ER

Say rather—"This pain is hard to bear, but I can bear it for I know that something great is coming out of it. I must drink this cup, as other men have drunk it. But I will try not to think of bitterness. I will try instead to think of the New Thing that is coming into my life because of this hurt—the new wisdom, the Greater Me that is being born."

Try to face pain that way, my dear, and something very wonderful will happen to you.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Adversity tries men; but virtue struggles after fame regardless of the adverse heights.—Italicus.

Time destroys the groundless conceits of men; it confirms decisions founded on reality.—Cicero.

Whosoever is delighted in solitude is either a wild beast or a god. —Plato.

The pursuit of the perfect, then, is the pursuit of sweetness and light. —Arnold.

He has carried every point who has mingled the useful with the agreeable.—Horace.

A millstone and the human heart are driven ever round. If they have nothing else to grind, they must themselves be ground.—Longfellow.

Fame is the echo of actions, resounding them to the world, save that the echo repeats only the last part, but fame relates all, and often more than all. —Fuller.

There is much eloquence in the tone of voice, in the eyes and in the air of a speaker, as in his choice of words. —La Rochefoucauld.

ACCOUNTING FOR A CHANGE IN TASTE

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

"Kindly explain the eye, or sight, phenomenon that causes objects to appear beautiful only for a while: then as time runs on, and designs change, they seem utterly rude. For instance, a 1915 car compared with today's makes. Is there any change in the light rays, or in their effect on the nerves?—Kermit Holliday."

THE effects of fashion in making the same things appear attractive or beautiful at one time, and ugly or repulsive at another time, are indeed, sufficiently amazing to almost justify your suspicion that alteration of the sense of sight must be concerned in the phenomenon.

But habit is the active agent in the changes of taste and of appreciation brought about by the decrees of fashion, and it is the brain and not the eye that judges and decides in such cases. The first thing that fashion has to do is to reform habit.

Changes of taste are produced by the subjective influences, ie., by impressions of mind. Study of organic evolution has taught us that there is an astonishing tendency to variation in all living things. No two individuals are absolutely alike, and each generation differs to some extent, however slight, from its predecessor.

Progress arises out of this tendency, which affects the spirit as well as the bodily forms. It causes us to "get tired of the same old thing." Certain things in nature seem permanently fixed, beyond our power to alter. Such are the green of vegetation and the blue of the unclouded sky. But, no doubt, if he could, man would produce change in these things, too.

Luther Burbank actually did introduce fashion in the colors and shapes of flowers.

Fashion, the most arbitrary embodiment of the spirit of change, would not be displeased to see purple, or blue, or red meadows, scarlet trees and a yellow sky—provided that it could have the dictation. Some astronomers have seriously suggested that on Mars red vegetation is a fashion of nature's own, because Mars glows so redly in the sky. Probably the Martians think it is lovely.
